House Acts On Bill Tomorrow To Extend Life Of RFC

BILLION TO BE ASKED IN RESOLUTION FULL AMOUNT FOR HARBOR PROJECT ASSURED

Life of Corporation Will Be Extended for Three Years Under New Plans TO BALANCE BUDGET

Expect to Return Government to Financial Normalcy Within 18 Months

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—(UP)—A resolution extending the life of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for three years, and authorizing probably $1,000,000,000 for debenture issues will be acted on by the house tomorrow, Majority Leader Byrnes said today.

The lending power of the RFC under the present act lapses January 22. Byrnes said the resolution, which he expected Chairman Steagall of the banking and currency committee to introduce late today, would provide for the organization of the gigantic lending organization at any time within the three-year period by authorization of the president.

"The RFC would like to have a billion for future debenture issuance," Byrnes said. "It is possible, however, that the resolution may call for an authorization of only $500,000,000."

Chairman Jones of the RFC was asked to appear before the senate banking and currency committee this afternoon to discuss the extension plans.

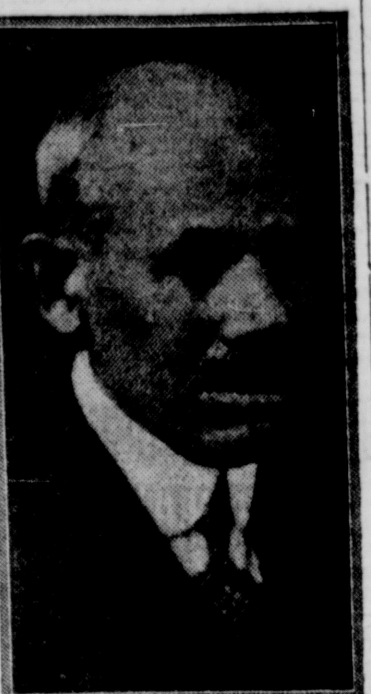

Broaden Powers
Chairman Fletcher of the senate committee said Jones also would present a plan to broaden the corporation's powers. He declined to discuss what method Jones had in mind.

Administration recovery plans including expenditure of $1,000,000,000 a month during the next half year are moving on a schedule calculated to return the government to financial normalcy in 18 months.

That is the long view taken here by federal officials responsible for the vast expenditure and planning now underway. President Roosevelt has promised in so far

DATA ON OCEAN AND AIR MAIL PACTS BURNED

Stenographer Tells Probers He Was Told by Brown to Destroy Them

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—(UP)—Official files of the post-office department containing data on ocean and air mail subsidies were destroyed on order of former Postmaster General Walter Brown's secretary when he left office last March, according to testimony today at the senate investigation of air mail contracts.

James Maher, stenographer to the postmaster general, testified he was instructed to burn Brown's official files shortly before last March 4. He said the documents contained data on ocean and air mail matters.

Maher appeared before the special senate committee which has been investigating ocean mail subsidies and which turned today to the air mail phase of postoffice department activities.

He said he received orders from Brown's secretary to throw into the furnace all files which the outgoing postmaster did not desire to retain.

"It was a couple of days before March 4," Maher said, "and I took the files down to the furnace and burned them."

Rudy Vallee To Contest Accusations

Brands Fay Webb's Suit for Separate Maintenance as "Shakedown Racket"

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 9.—(UP)—One of the most bitterly-fought domestic trials in local legal history was foreseen today as Rudy Vallee prepared to contest misconduct charges of his estranged wife, the former Fay Webb.

Branding her suit for separate maintenance a "shakedown racket," Vallee expressed a ready willingness to parade his past love life in open court and in the breath impugned her own conduct with veiled insinuations. Vallee has been in Hollywood, making a motion picture.

The suit was filed yesterday. Charges were kept secret, sealed on Mrs. Vallee's request. His eyes blazing in anger, the crooner ordered them made public and his attorney capitulated.

In the suit, Miss Webb accused her husband of improper conduct with three women. One she identified as Alice Fay, blonde radio singer and actress. The others were referred to only as Jane Doe and Jane Doe 2.

Miss Fay, who recently denied she and Vallee, her former employer, were planning matrimony, was charged with keeping a love nest with him at Miami Beach, Fla., last January and February. Dates and places are "well known to Vallee," the complaint alleged. Alleged photographs showing the two embracing were cited.

Miss Fay characterized the charges as "ridiculous."

"As a member of his orchestra," she said, "I have traveled with him in many different states and in many different places. Any charge as is listed in the complaint is ridiculous as will be definitely proved when the matter is brought into court."

Vallee said he was ready to disprove the charges.

CITY DISBURSEMENTS SHOW $49,000 SAVING OVER SAME SIX MONTHS OF YEAR AGO

ANALYZING CITY finances for the first six months of the fiscal year and showing the healthy condition of Santa Ana's budget, City Auditor Lloyd Banks made a report to the city council yesterday that showed a total surplus in receipts and expenditures of $2806.70 more than was anticipated.

The semi-annual report, which covers receipts and disbursements from July 1 to December 31, 1933, revealed that the city had effected a saving of $49,180 in disbursements over the corresponding period in 1932. The 1933 disbursements for the six month period were $130,279.50 as compared to $179,459.50 for the same period in 1932, which means that the city will be able to make a budget reduction of $100,000 at the end of the year, unless some unforeseen expenditure becomes necessary.

In the face of decreasing property valuations and diminishing revenue, the city council set out to cut $100,000 from civic expenses when the budget was framed last summer.

Total revenues for the six month period were approximately $264,349.28 of which estimated taxes amounted to $150,000.

Although Banks pointed out that he had received no official report from the county on the first half collection of taxes, he reported that the total percentage of collection is within one or two per cent as compared to last year. He advised the withholding of all capital outlay expenditures until receipts are determined because a reserve must be built up to take care of the decrease in revenue from taxation during the fiscal year 1934-35 caused by further reduction in valuation which has been announced by County Assessor James Sleeper.

No Red Ink
Despite the addition of several items in the expenditures which had not been included when the budget was made, the city did not dip in red ink on the second quarter apportionment. Banks pointed out. These unforeseen items included tools and supplies and time for extra foremen under the RFC, capital outlay on the Municipal

Information Sent County By Engineer

Exact Amount of Appropriation to Be Announced at Later Date

DEFINITE assurance that the entire $1,835,441 harbor improvement project has been approved by the federal government was contained in a letter received this morning by the board of supervisors. The letter was from F. E. Trask, state engineer for the Public Works Administration and said:

"Please be advised that your application for loan and grant for harbor improvement ($2,625,000) has been approved and given a docket number. The $2,625,000 is subject to change because no amount was given in the telegram from Washington.

Please prepare plans and specifications and forward to this office for approval at earliest possible date."

Later in the morning Trask, in a telephone conversation with The Register confirmed the fact that the amount of $2,625,000 represented funds for the harbor project exclusively and did not include other projects given federal approval recently.

Trask said that the amount represented the $198,000 loan and grant to the county plus the amount set aside under the rivers and harbors appropriation for use in developing Orange county harbor as a "floating harbor" and possible home port for the government "mosquito fleet."

He said that the allowance probably was set at the $2,625,000 amount for the purpose of covering exactly the amount necessary to complete the entire project. The exact amount of the appropriation will be definitely announced after contracts for all work have been awarded.

Sponsors of the harbor project today took the word of Trask as indicative that the project will definitely be under way early this year. When the county voted ap-

BENEFITS FOR VETERANS WILL BECOME ISSUE

Senate Republicans Hope to Challenge Leadership of Democrats

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—(UP)—Restoration of veterans' benefits was adopted today by Senate Republicans as an issue upon which they could challenge the powerful Democratic leadership with some hope of success.

At the same time supporters of veterans' legislation were being advised by their leaders not to insist upon a return of benefits which in many past cases led to admitted abuses.

Support for veterans' legislation was crystallizing behind a measure presented yesterday by Senator Reed, Rep., Pa. This bill, incorporating the four-point program of the American Legion, was counted upon to attract a number of votes from the Democratic side of the senate.

With the addition of a section calling for liberalized treatment of Spanish War veterans, this bill probably will be the basis for attempts to change the present situation.

Senator Steiwer, Rep., Ore., who will support the Reed measure, said he favored restoration of hospitalization facilities for indigent veterans, whether or not their illness was connected with war service.

Fleet's Commander Accompanies Planes to San Francisco This Morning

NAVY SHIPS IN PLACE
Cruisers Placed 300 Miles Apart; Weather Conditions Reported as Good

BULLETIN
SAN PEDRO, Cal., Jan. 9.—(UP)—Six navy seaplanes which will make a mass flight from San Francisco to Honolulu passed over Los Angeles harbor today shortly before noon, enroute to San Francisco.

Accompanied by nine smaller escort planes, the big amphibians wheeled over the naval anchorage, rounded Point Fermin and headed north.

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 9.—(UP)—Bearing the four-starred aluminum "flag" of the fleet's commander in chief, a navy flying boat piloted by Lieut. Commander Knaffler McGinnis took off shortly after 10 a. m. today for San Francisco, signaling the start of a flight to Pearl Harbor, Hawaii.

Five other planes followed the leader into the air. In McGinnis' plane was Admiral David F. Sellers, commander in chief, U. S. fleet, who will leave the squadron at San Francisco.

Thursday morning, if the weather permits, the squadron will race out over the Golden Gate for Pearl Harbor.

Correct Trouble
Shortly after 3 p. m. the first plane was pushed from the hangars at North Island. Mechanics found a fault in the oiling system and McGinnis took the ship aloft on a short inspection hop.

The trouble corrected, Adm. Sellers was piped aboard the plane. Two staff officers, Lieut. Commander A. C. McFall, aviation officer and Lieut. A. De. Ayrault, jr., flag lieutenant, boarded other planes.

McGinnis' plane slowly gathered speed on the glassy surface of the bay and roared into the air in an easy takeoff. The other planes wheeled after it and disappeared into the north in single line.

The Trans-Pacific squadron will land at Paradise Cove, a sheltered spot on San Francisco bay, 10 miles from the city of San Francisco.

The navy tug Gannet will stand by at the cove to furnish supplies to the planes and quarters for the personnel. Each plane will be loaded with 1745 gallons of gasoline, according to navy announcements. Food for five men for five days will be carried in each plane. Equipment will include a radio and a collapsible rubber boat.

When the planes take off for Pearl Harbor, a protective line of navy ships will guard them at intervals of 300 miles from the Golden Gate to Honolulu. The ships in order from the San Francisco side are: Sandpiper, Schenck, Brevese, Whippoorwill, Wright, Pelican and Albatross. Midway on the route, the U. S. S. Tanager will flash radio weather signals to the planes.

ROOSEVELT WORKS ON TWO MESSAGES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—(UP)—President Roosevelt cut his calling list to a minimum today to devote several hours to the two special messages to congress which are to be transmitted tomorrow.

Mr. Roosevelt will give both houses special communications on farm credit bond guarantees and the St. Lawrence waterways treaty.

On the bond guarantee question it was expected that the president would recommend the creation of a special $2,000,000,000 in securities already authorized. If congress agrees, the United States will assume full obligation for the bonds instead of just guaranteeing the interest.

On the treaty it was expected Mr. Roosevelt would ask its approval although senate leaders doubt this can be obtained speedily.

G.O.P. DEMANDS CUT IN FEDERAL COSTS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—(UP)—The Republican National committee today called for a sharp reversal of the administration's spending program, claiming that uncontrolled inflation would be the inevitable result.

"The most constructive thing which Republicans in congress can now do is to oppose the administration program. That means the closest scrutiny of all appropriation bills and opposition to all items of whatever character which are an invitation to the further squandering of public funds," a statement said.

Declaring that the prospective $7,000,000,000 deficit and increase of the public debt to $31,000,000,000 was "appalling," the committee said "there is no confidence to be placed in the prophecy that the budget may be balanced in two or three years."

MILTON K. YOUNG TO RUN FOR GOVERNOR

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 9.—(UP)—Milton K. Young of Los Angeles, who lost the election to Governor Rolph four years ago, was back in the ring today with an announcement he would again seek the Democratic nomination for governor.

The Los Angeles attorney announced his re-entry before addressing a Jackson Day gathering of Democrats here last night. He committed himself squarely to the recovery policies of President Roosevelt.

"I have been asked if my hat is in the ring," Young said. "It is. In the near future, I shall announce in detail the principles and policies for which I stand, but I can sum them up today in the brief statement that it is my object to carry out in California the same broad efforts for the welfare of the whole people as President Roosevelt is carrying out in the nation."

DATA ON OCEAN AND AIR MAIL PACKS BURNED

Stenographer Tells Probers He Was Told by Brown to Destroy Them

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—(UP)—Official files of the post-office department containing data on ocean and air mail subsidies were destroyed on order of former Postmaster General Walter Brown's secretary when he left office last March, according to testimony today at the senate investigation of air mail contracts.

James Maher, stenographer to the postmaster general, testified he was instructed to burn Brown's official files shortly before last March 4. He said the documents contained data on ocean and air mail matters.

Maher appeared before the special senate committee which has been investigating ocean mail subsidies and which turned today to the air mail phase of postoffice department activities.

He said he received orders from Brown's secretary to throw into the furnace all files which the outgoing postmaster did not desire to retain.

It was a couple of days before March 4, Maher said, "and I took the files down to the furnace and burned them."

He said he discussed the instructions with other departmental stenographers, and told them he thought it unwise to destroy the files because they might prove valuable in the Roosevelt administration.

He testified official files of other postmaster generals had been stored away in the department.

Thomas H. McKee, former official of the Wedell-Williams Air Transport company, New Orleans, charged that the post office department discriminated against independent transport operators in awarding mail contracts.

He testified regarding an unsuccessful attempt to obtain from Brown participation in mail subsidies.

"I will be happy to answer every charge she has made," he said, "I hope I never have to do it. I don't want to blast her but if eventually everything has to be brought out then we will let Mrs. Vallee's voice speak for itself."

Hinting at some discovery in their married life, Vallee considered himself generous for providing her $100 a week since their separation last April.

Yesterday's mandate of the U. S. Supreme court upholding the validity of part of the indictment against Cannon and Miss Burroughs has not been forwarded to the District of Columbia Supreme court yet. Until it is received, no tentative date can be set for the trial.

McNeil said he interpreted the Supreme court's decision as practically destroying the whole indictment. In that light of the 10 counts were held invalid.

CITY DISBURSEMENTS SHOW $49,000 SAVING OVER SAME SIX MONTHS OF YEAR AGO

ANALYZING CITY finances for the first six months of the fiscal year and showing the healthy condition of Santa Ana's budget, City Auditor Lloyd Banks made a report to the city council yesterday that showed a total surplus in receipts and expenditures of $286,700 more than was anticipated.

The semi-annual report, which covers receipts and disbursements from July 1 to December 31, 1933, revealed that the city had effected a saving of $49,180 in disbursements over the corresponding period for 1932. The 1933 disbursements for the six month period were $130,279.50 as compared to $239,469 for 1932, which means that the city will be able to make a budget reduction of $100,000 at the end of the year, unless some unforeseen expenditure becomes necessary. In the face of decreasing property valuations and diminishing revenue, the city council set out to cut $100,000 from civic expenses when the budget was framed last summer.

Total revenues for the six month period were approximately $284,340.28 of which estimated taxes amounted to $100,000.

HIGHEST COURT UPHOLDS LAW ON MORTGAGES

Minnesota Law Extending Payments is Declared Legal in Decision

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—(UP)—The supreme court was committed today to the principle that emergencies call into being powers in the federal constitution giving the government authority to cope with economic hardships.

The commitment was made in a five-to-four decision, which debated more violently than at any other time in recent years the limitations of constitutional authority in times of stress. It upheld the Minnesota law establishing a two-year moratorium on mortgage foreclosures, and possibly established the validity of similar emergency legislation in numerous other states.

The decision revealed a lineup of liberals and conservatives which had been established in earlier cases.

Chief Justice Hughes, criticized in the senate as too conservative when he was named to the bench, wrote the majority opinion. Justice Owen Roberts, a less regular recruit to the liberal cause, joined him in the majority, which included Justices Brandies, Stone and Cardozo.

The regular conservatives, Justices Sutherland, Van Devanter, McReynolds and Butler, expressed determined contrary views in an opinion by Sutherland.

Information Sent County By Engineer

Exact Amount of Appropriation to Be Announced at Later Date

DEFINITE assurance that the entire $1,835,441 harbor improvement project has been approved by the federal government was contained in a letter received this morning by the board of supervisors. The letter was from E. Trask, state engineer for the Public Works Administration and said:

"Please be advised that your application for loan and grant for harbor improvement ($2,625,000) has been approved and given a docket number. The $2,625,000 is subject to change because no amount was given in the telegram from Washington.

"Please prepare plans and specifications and forward to this office for approval at earliest possible date."

Later in the morning Trask, in a telephone conversation with The Register confirmed the fact that the amount of $2,625,000 represented funds for the harbor project exclusively and did not include other projects given federal approval recently.

Trask said that the amount represented the $198,000 loan and grant to the county plus the amount set aside under the rivers and harbors appropriation for use in developing Orange county harbor as a yachting harbor and possible home port for the government's "mosquito fleet."

He said that the allowance probably was set at the $2,625,000 amount for the purpose of covering exactly the amount necessary to complete the entire project. The exact amount of appropriation will be definitely announced after contracts for all work have been awarded.

Sponsors of the harbor project today took the word of Trask as indicative that the project will definitely be under way early this year. When the county voted approval.

200 TRUSTIES HUNT FOR FLOOD VICTIM

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 9.—(UP)—A mother's anguish over the loss of her 17-year-old daughter in the New Year's day flood was answered today by Police Chief James E. Davis in assigning 200 jail trustees to search for the body of Virginia Pullian.

The search spread over a wide area from the spot where the girl and seven other persons were plunged into the swollen Los Angeles river when a bridge collapsed. Two of her companions are still missing.

Friends said the girl's mother was in danger of losing her mind unless the body was recovered for burial. Searchers, however, feared the body may have been swept toward the sea making its discovery unlikely. Despite the odds, Police Chief Davis said a systematic search would be made of the flooded district.

Senator Steiwer, Rep., Ore., who still supports the feed measure, said he "favored restoration of hospitalization facilities for indigent veterans, whether or not their illness was connected with war service."

"So long as there are vacant beds in the hospitals," he said, "veterans certainly should get equal treatment with boys from the CCC if they can't afford to pay for hospital treatment."

The senate was idle today, except for committee work.

President Roosevelt is expected to send two messages to congress tomorrow. One will urge ratification of the St. Lawrence Waterway treaty. The other will discuss the project for guaranteeing principal as well as interest on bonds of the farm credit administration.

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 9.—(UP)—Bearing the four-starred aluminum "flag" of the fleet's commander in chief, a navy flying boat piloted by Lieutenant Commander Kniffin, McGinnis took off shortly after 10 a. m. today for San Francisco, signaling the start of a flight to Pearl Harbor, Hawaii.

Five other planes followed the leader into the air. In McGinnis' plane was Admiral David F. Sellers, commander in chief, U. S. fleet, who will leave the squadron at San Francisco.

Thursday morning, if the weather permits, the squadron will roar out over the Golden Gate for Pearl Harbor.

Correct Trouble

Shortly after 5 p. m. the first plane was pushed from the hangars at North Island. Mechanics found a fault in the oiling system and McGinnis took the ship aloft on a short inspection hop.

The trouble corrected, Adm. Sellers was piped aboard the plane. Two staff officers, Lieutenant Commander A. C. McFall, aviation officer and Lieutenant A. De Arault, Jr., flag lieutenant, boarded other planes.

McGinnis' plane slowly gathered speed on the glassy surface of the bay and roared into the air in an easy takeoff. The other planes wheeled after it and disappeared into the north in a single line.

The Trans-Pacific squadron will land at Paradise Cove, a sheltered spot on San Francisco bay, 19 miles from the city of San Francisco.

The navy tug Gannet will stand by at the cove to furnish supplies to the planes and quarters for the personnel. Each plane will be loaded with 1745 gallons of gasoline, according to navy announcements. Food for five men for five days will be carried in each plane. Equipment will include a radio and a collapsible rubber boat.

When the planes take off for Pearl Harbor, a protective line of navy ships will guard them at intervals of 300 miles from the Golden Gate to Honolulu. The ships in order from the San Francisco side are: Sandpiper, Schenck, Brees, Whitcomb, Wright, Pelican and Albatross. Midway on the route the U. S. S. Tangier will flash radio weather signals to the planes.

as the future may be pledged that the United States will live within its income in the fiscal year 1935-36.

Balanced Budget

Mr. Roosevelt proposes for that year an absolute balanced budget. That would stymie the end of emergency recovery expenditures. But by no means does it signify abandonment of objectives which cannot possibly be achieved within the 18 months remaining for emergency spending. That period will end June 30, 1935.

All concerned with the administration hesitate—in fact refuse—to make any prediction about the end of the depression. Mr. Roosevelt and his aides do not intend to say "when." They recall how former President Hoover was plagued by sarcastic use of his reference to prosperity being just around the corner.

But by inference the pledge to get the country out of the depression woods has been made. It was contained in the annual budget message of last week and supplemented a previous statement that the country was in the process of recovery. The budget message pledged the administration to balanced income and outgo in what Mr. Roosevelt describes as "the third year of recovery."

COURT RULING NOT TO WEAKEN STATUTE

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 9.—(UP)—Action of the United States supreme court in invalidating two sections of California's alien land law will not change the act materially, associate Justice J. U. Plummer of the third district appellate court said today.

"Invalidation of sections 9-A and 1933 of the act eliminates the clause which placed burden of establishing innocence on the defendant," Justice Plummer said. "It will make it the duty of the state to establish a prima facie case, but will not necessarily weaken the law."

Admiral Wilson's private physician. Scare him, Charley, but don't hurt him, for he is the best liked man in Washington, the best story-teller, raises good horses and is personal physician to Senator Carter Glass and fighting roosters. President Wilson used his sense of humor when he made Doc an admiral. Doc had never been on any water bigger than Culpepper Creek, and he forded it horseback on a possum hunt. You Mayo boys get Doc to tell you about when he and Jesse Jones of the R.F.C. got into Buckingham Palace with President Wilson and Jesse took off his shoes in the reception hall and was warming his feet by the King's fireside.

proval of the $640,000 bond issue as a portion of the county's share in financing the project it was definitely stated that no part of the appropriation would be used unless the entire amount was available.

Under the plan by which the bond election was carried the federal government agreed to make the harbor development a federal project and finance half of it outright through a rivers and harbors appropriation. The remaining half, of approximately $918,000 was to be financed through a bond issue and federal grant. The bonds are to be sold to the federal government. Several days ago the Public Works Administration announced from Washington, D. C., that $918,000 had been appropriated to cover the loan and grant to the county. Trask's letter today definitely assured the county that the government's share had been appropriated.

STOCKS SHOOT UPWARD TODAY: TRADING DULL

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—(UP)—The stock market gave a strong demonstration so far as prices were concerned today, gains ranging to more than 8 points, but traders continued wary and dealings were dull. Late profit taking failed to dent the market to any considerable extent.

Tobacco shares took over the market leadership, their strength being based on overnight announcement of increases in prices for popular brands of cigarettes. It was the first price increase in almost a year and the tobacco shares responded with gains ranging from 1 to more than 8 points.

This strength in the tobacco issues led to a stronger tone through the entire list, gains of fractions to 3 points being recorded generally with some sporadic issues spurring sharply. Among these latter was Hat Corporation preferred which leaped to equal its 1932-33 high of 30, an increase of 8 1/2 points, on a favorable earnings report.

Outside of the tobacco announcement there was little to effect the market save the possibility of two special presidential messages to congress tomorrow, which added to the lack of enthusiasm for making commitments today. The dollar was about steady in foreign exchange trading while the Reconstruction Finance corporation gold price remained unchanged. Corporation bonds were higher while U. S. government and German issues were easier. Wheat gained fractionally while cotton held about steady.

In the industrial list on the stock market, the communications shares featured along with tobacco shares. American Telephone gained more than 3 points to above 112 while Postal Telegraph preferred and Western Union both showed advances of more than a point. U. S. Steel gained fractionally to around 47.

MAKE ARREST IN GAS THEFT CASE

With officers positive that he was the man who robbed a trap wagon at Newland and Hazard streets in Garden Grove Sunday night, Forest Leake, 22, Midway City, was jailed yesterday on a charge of petty theft and continues to deny all connection with the case, according to reports.

Deputy Sheriff Walter Dungan and Ives Brown and Special Officers E. Willard and B. Dungan, said they watched Leake and another man break open a box, steal 10 gallons of oil and 25 gallons of gasoline and then flee when officers started to arrest them. The two men abandoned their car, which was occupied by a young Long Beach woman, who admitted that Leake stole the fuel, reports said. She was not held.

The Midway City man was arrested at his home and booked at the jail.

Bowl, such as additional bleachers, lights, turf and the purchase of property; creation of the utility department, Fiesta Del Oro refunds, NRA expense and several minor items. After including these items, the surplus of expenditures under the budget was $897, while the excess of revenues over budget estimates was $1818.28, making the grand total surplus of $2805.70.

All principal and interest have been met on general obligations and acquisition and improvement districts, the report showed. In addition, all interest was paid on the 1915 Act bonds and $80,000 was paid January 1 on principal, leaving a net amount outstanding on the 1915 bonds of $65,000.

All operating funds showed a balance of $6400 more than on January 1, 1933, Banks said.

General Income

Of the items showing income in the general fund, nine were above, five below and two the same as the estimated figure for the first half of the year. Those showing increases were business licenses, dog licenses, building permits, plumbing permits, electrical permits, interest on bank accounts, cleaning weeds, delinquent penalties and interest, and rental on the Bowl.

Those showing decreases were fines in police court, franchise taxes, insurance dividends, sale of trash and zoning. Salary refunds and the unemployment association were the same while $141 from the state earthquake relief funds and $12 for certified copies of statistical records were not included in the budget.

A recapitulation of the budget shows the following departments had increased income over the estimated amount: general fund, water fund, street fund, street improvement fund (fines).

The expenditure table shows the following funds had decreased over estimates: water fund, street fund, sewer fund, park fund, and advertising fund. Those having increases were the music fund, fire fund, and general fund.

Tire Man Denies His Coat Stolen

Denying that he was at The Barn, night club at 2603 South Main street early Sunday morning and had his overcoat stolen from the checkroom, Orval Lyon, tire dealer, who lives at 1114 West Seventeenth street, asked that a correction be made of a news story in The Register yesterday.

Verne Speich, manager of the club, and Special Officer T. C. Pinney came to the police station at 8:15 a. m. Sunday and reported to Captain Jess Buckles that an overcoat had been stolen at the club from a man named Orval Lyon, 1114 West Seventeenth street, and gave Buckles a business card from Lyon from which to make out a report. The story in the paper was taken from the police report.

DOG TEAM WITH UNIQUE WAGON ARRIVES HERE

Heading for the last lap of his long journey, Karl Lindauer and his "Dogmobile" were in Santa Ana today after a 7000-mile trip up and down and across the United States. On November 15, 1932, Lindauer found himself without a job in his home town of Lake Lure, North Carolina, so he decided to take his two canine pals on a trip to Alaska, where he thinks he can at least make a living by fishing and trapping.

So he constructed his novel dog-wagon, pulled by his German shepherd, Bessie, and aided and abetted at times by Buddie, a small fox terrier, which he calls his "spare" and uses sometimes in helping pull up hills. Most of the time, however, Buddie scampers along the road or rides on the wagon.

Averaging 15 miles a day, Lindauer started to hike across the country on November 15, 1932, going first to Florida, then back to the Chicago World Fair and from there through Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona and Southern California.

Camping equipment is carried on the wagon pulled by the German shepherd and each night on the open road, camp is set up. The dogs never tire of the long trek. Lindauer said, but awaken him in the morning if he chances to sleep a little too late, so anxious are they to be on their way. Lindauer selected his unique mode of traveling, he said, because he could not bear to leave his two canine friends behind to start hitch-hiking to Alaska, where he will set out for after about a month's stay in Southern California while he makes repairs on his outfit.

He earns his way by selling pictures of the dog-wagon and himself.

Man In Court On Battery Charge

Charles Salazar, brother-in-law of Ysaia, charged the defendant with beating him on December 7. Ysaia was released without bond by Judge Kenneth Morrison.

The defendant was released from the county jail on a drunk charge several days ago.

SAN JOSE, Cal., Jan. 9.—(UP)—Preliminary examination of Anthony Cataldi, ranch youth, accused of leadership in a mob which lynched John Holmes and Thomas Thummond in the Brooke Hart kidnapping and slaying, was to be continued one week when called in justice court here late today.

The postponement was announced pending action of the Santa Clara grand jury which meets Thursday.

But, he noted, "while emergency does not create power, emergency may furnish the occasion for the exercise of power. The constitutional question presented in the light of an emergency is whether the power possessed embraces the particular exercise of it in response to particular conditions."

This last phraseology was interpreted to indicate the court undertook to commit itself to no more than the particular case under consideration, reserving the right to weigh each case on its particular merits as it comes up for decision. Sutherland was quite as insistent in his dissent. He said, "He simply closes his eyes to the necessary implications of the decision who fails to see in it the potentiality of future gradual but ever advancing encroachments upon the sanctity of private and public contracts."

The effect of the Minnesota legislation, though serious enough in itself, is of trivial significance compared with the far more dangerous and serious inroads upon the limitations of the constitution which are almost certain to ensue as a consequence naturally following any step beyond the boundaries fixed by that instrument."

CHEHALIS, Wash., Jan. 9.—(UP)—Prince Alexis Mdivani came out of seclusion here today, posed for photographers in front of the St. Helen's hotel and left with his party in two taxicabs for either Seattle or Victoria, B. C.

The young, handsome prince of the house of Georgia, whose honeymoon trip with the former Baroness Hutton, "Fire and Ice" actress, was interrupted by a California process server, indicating he might go directly to Victoria.

He did not disclose his future plans although it was believed he might board a Canadian Pacific liner for the Orient and meet his wealthy bride in Japan.

DELAY IS SOUGHT IN LYNCHING CASE

SAN JOSE, Cal., Jan. 9.—(UP)—Preliminary examination of Anthony Cataldi, ranch youth, accused of leadership in a mob which lynched John Holmes and Thomas Thurmond in the Brooke Hart kidnapping and slaying, was to be continued one week when called in justice court here late today.

The postponement was announced pending action of the Santa Clara grand jury which meets Thursday.

But, he noted, "while emergency does not create power, emergency may furnish the occasion for the exercise of power. The constitutional question presented in the light of an emergency is whether the power possessed embraces the particular exercise of it in response to particular conditions." This last phraseology was interpreted to indicate the court undertook to commit itself to no more than a particular case under consideration, reserving the right to weigh each case on its particular merits as it comes up for decision.

Sutherland was quite as insistent in his dissent. He said, "He simply closes his eyes to the necessary implication of the decision who fails to see in it the potentiality of future gradual but ever advancing encroachments upon the sanctity of private and public contracts."

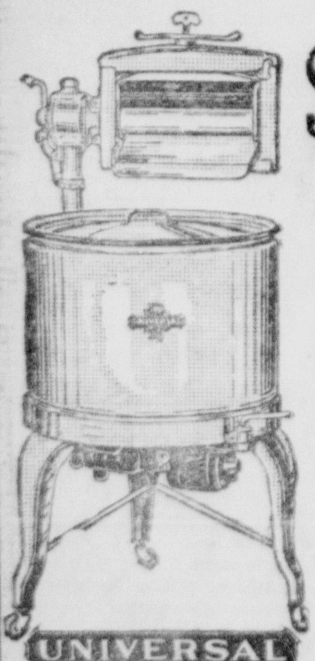

"The effect of the Minnesota legislation, though serious enough in itself, is of trivial significance compared with the far more dangerous and serious inroads upon the limitations of the constitution which are almost certain to ensue as a consequence naturally following any step beyond the boundaries fixed by that instrument."

GROUP TELLS CONFIDENCE IN CURRY'S WORK

Answering charges made against County Welfare Director Byron V. Curry that he is not fitted for the position he occupies, S. M. Davis, local attorney, today brought to the Register a statement signed by a group of citizens expressing confidence in Curry's administration of the department.
Harry S. Gerhart, director of the People's Forum, made the charges at a forum meeting last Thursday night, that Curry is not fitted for the position of dictator of human destiny in Orange county, that people without food were refused aid, that Curry has had no social training in the administration of human needs and that his experience in relief work was gained at the expense of poor victims of the depression.
It also was charged that there have been cases of starvation in Orange county where persons starved to death. Gerhart claimed that apparent technicalities were used to refuse aid to needy persons and that Curry "condemned many to die of slow starvation and prolonged the agony of others through unjust treatment. Cases were cited to illustrate the charges made.

Gerhart charged that Roosevelt's program was being thwarted in Orange county by a group that was politically entrenched and in opposition to administration policies. He specified at the meeting that Curry is efficient, constantly alert, and instituted his programs quickly and showed appreciable results in many activities.
Support Curry
The statement brought to The Register today with names of signers is as follows:
"On account of the fact that the administration of the welfare work in Orange county has been called in question in a public way, the undersigned, wishing to bear witness to the fact that Mr. B. V. Curry, the administrator of welfare activities in this county, is, in our judgment, well qualified to carry forward this work. This is corroborated by the fact that most of the people of this county recognize in Mr. Curry a faithful and efficient public servant who has had a hard and a difficult task to accomplish, and that he has carried out the intentions and purposes of the welfare work in an able and conscientious manner, without fear or favor.
"We further wish to assure everyone who may see or read this statement, that it is made without consulting with Mr. Curry and that it is entirely non-political in its nature.
"We are glad to state that we believe that Mr. Curry is administering his office as the administrator of public welfare in a faithful, conscientious and efficient manner."

CAULIFLOWER MEN PLAN PRORATE MEET

At the request of the cauliflower growers in Santa Barbara and adjacent counties, the California Prorate Commission has consented to hold a prorate hearing in Guadalupe on Thursday, January 11, starting at 10 a. m., in the American Legion hall, Orange county growers, in a meeting held in the Farm Bureau office on Saturday, December 30, decided that a special hearing in this district will not be necessary and recommended cooperation with the northern growers. Transportation for a limited number of growers free through the Farm Bureau office. Eric E. Eastman, assistant farm advisor, said today. Growers and others who are opposed to placing a prorate upon cauliflower should make an especial effort to be present at the hearing and see that their stand is satisfactorily presented at this time, as the low market price and outlook for the present crop is being used to advocate immediate proration, Eastman said.
As the decision of the commission, either for or against proration, will greatly affect the marketing of the present crop, all growers are urged to contact either the Farm Bureau or the Farm Advisor's office in Santa Ana at once, and state their attitude to be announced. Those who can arrange to do so are also urged to attend the hearing.
Special meeting of Silver Cord Lodge No. 506, F. & A. M., Tuesday, January 9th, at 7:30 p. m., First Degree. All Master Masons cordially invited. DON C. EDWARDS, W. M.

CHARGES AGAINST WELFARE DEPARTMENT BROUGHT BEFORE COUNTY SUPERVISORS TODAY

Charges that the county welfare department had refused to aid his wife and family unless the wife signed a complaint charging him with non-support, were contained in a letter sent the board of supervisors this morning by H. F. Dunmeade of Garden Grove. The letter was referred to Supervisor John Mitchell for investigation. Another complaint was voiced in a letter from Inez Costruita which was referred to Supervisor George Jeffrey for investigation.

Dunmeade, in his letter told the board that after he had tried unsuccessfully to find work in Orange county he decided to make a trip along the route of the Metropolitan Water District aqueduct in quest for work. He said that before leaving on his trip he went to the welfare department and asked that his family be provided with food.
When his wife applied for aid she was informed that nothing could be done, he alleged, unless she signed a complaint for a warrant charging him with non-support. When this was done, Dunmeade's letter said, she was given a grocery order for $4.50.

Left Job
At Mecca, the letter said, he turned back and retraced his steps to Riverside county where he found employment on a turkey farm. He notified his wife. She visited him at the ranch and told him of the warrant and informed him that the welfare department officials had told her that if her husband would return he would be put to work. Dunmeade's wife told him, according to the letter, that had he remained at home he would have been among the first to receive assignment to CWA work.
Acting on this information, he said, he quit his job and returned only to be told that he would have to register at Garden Grove in order to find employment. This he did but, according to his letter, has found no work.

He also charged that his land-lord, acting on the advice of the welfare department, has started proceedings to evict him from the house in which he lives for non-payment of rent and the electric lights and gas are about to be turned off at his home. The welfare department, he said, is supplying the family with food.

Second Complaint
A second complaint was read to the board and turned over to Supervisor George Jeffrey for investigation. This was the request of Inez Costruita that the board place her 11-year-old brother and 13-year-old sister on the Orphan Aid rolls. She said that the welfare department had declined to assist her to pay rent on her house.
According to her request her parents came to the United States from Mexico in 1915 and moved to Orange county in 1925 and her father died the same year. The mother died in 1930. The younger children are citizens of the United States. The writer of the letter stated that she is employed by Mrs. Ray Lambert for five days weekly at a wage of $4 and with this sum is clothing and feeding her brother and sister and 79-year-old grandmother.

When she applied for aid with her rent the welfare department suggested that she move in one of the department's houses at Stanton which offer was refused because it was too far away for her to secure work. The application for orphan's aid was approved by Mrs. Ray Lambert and Mrs. Edith Ritter. Lambert added a note to the request urging that the family be assisted.

Faced with four additional counts of committing a statutory offense against school girls, W. L. Hicks, grocer, appeared in justice court this morning and was held to answer to the superior court by Judge Kenneth Morrison.

The preliminary hearing on four counts was a surprise since only one charge was mentioned when Hicks was arraigned. Four Lowell school girls, three aged 10 and one 11, testified against Hicks in court today. An extra panel of 50 jurors was ordered for the case by Judge Morrison.

Hicks was tried on five similar counts several weeks ago and found guilty on one, not guilty on two, had one dismissed and one disagreed upon by the jury. The latter case will be retried and the date for trial set Friday in superior court.

Hicks was sentenced to spend one year in the county jail with five years of probation on the count where the jury found him guilty. He is being represented by Tom McFadden.

charge and pleaded not guilty. He was found guilty by Judge Dodge in court yesterday and given the same sentence. Preston Lee Joiner, another Costa Mesa resident, pleaded guilty last week and was given the same sentence.

GROUP TELLS CONFIDENCE IN CURRY'S WORK

Answering charges made against County Welfare Director Byron V. Curry that he is not fitted for the position he occupies, S. M. Davis, local attorney, today brought to The Register a statement signed by a group of citizens expressing confidence in Curry's administration of the department.

Harry S. Gerhart, director of the People's Forum, made the charges at a forum meeting last Thursday night, that Curry is not fitted for the position of director of human destiny in Orange county, that people without food were refused aid, that Curry has had no social training in the administration of human needs and that his experience in relief work was gained at the expense of poor victims of the depression.

It also was charged that there have been cases of starvation in Orange county where persons starved to death. Gerhart claimed that apparent technicalities were used to refuse aid to needy persons and that Curry "condemned many to die of slow starvation and prolonged the agony of others" through unjust treatment. Cases were cited to illustrate the charges made.

Gerhart charged that Roosevelt's program was being thwarted in Orange county by a group that was politically entrenched and opposed to administration policies. He specified at the meeting that Curry is efficient, constantly alert, and instituted his programs quickly and showed appreciable results in many activities.

Support Curry

The statement brought to The Register today with names of signers is as follows:

"On account of the fact that the administration of the welfare work in Orange county has been called in question in a public way, the undersigned, wish to bear witness to the fact that Mr. B. V. Curry, the administrator of welfare activities in this county, is, in our judgment, well qualified to carry forward this work. This is corroborated by the fact that most of the people of this county recognize in Mr. Curry a faithful and efficient public servant who has had a hard and difficult task to accomplish and that he has carried out the welfare work in an able and conscientious manner, without fear or favor.

"We further wish to assure everyone who may see or read this statement, that it is made without consulting with Mr. Curry and that it is entirely non-political in its nature.

"We are glad to state that we believe that Mr. Curry is administering his office as the administrator of public welfare in a faithful, conscientious and efficient manner."

CAULIFLOWER MEN PLAN PRORATE MEET

At the request of the cauliflower growers in Santa Barbara and adjacent counties, the California Prorate Commission has consented to hold a prorate hearing in Guadalupe on Thursday, January 11, starting at 10 a. m. in the American Legion hall, Orange county growers, in a meeting held in the Farm Bureau office on Saturday, December 30, decided that a special hearing in this district will not be necessary and recommended cooperation with the northern growers. Transportation for a limited number of growers to the meeting may be secured free through the Farm Bureau office, Eric E. Eastman, assistant farm advisor, said today. Growers and others who are opposed to placing a prorate upon cauliflower should make an especial effort to be present at the hearing and see that their stand is satisfactorily presented at this time, as the low market price and outlook for the present crop is being used to advocate immediate proration, Eastman said.

As the decision of the commission, either for or against proration, will greatly affect the marketing of the present crop, all growers are urged to contact either the Farm Bureau or the Farm Advisor's office in Santa Ana at once, and state their attitude towards proration, the advisor announced. Those who can arrange to do so are also urged to attend the hearing.

CHARGES AGAINST WELFARE DEPARTMENT BROUGHT BEFORE COUNTY SUPERVISORS TODAY

Charges that the county welfare department had refused to aid his wife and family unless the wife signed a complaint charging him with non-support, were contained in a letter sent the board of supervisors this morning by H. F. Dunmeade of Garden Grove. The letter was referred to Supervisor John Mitchell for investigation. Another complaint was voiced in a letter from Inez Costruita which was referred to Supervisor George Jeffrey for investigation.

Dunmeade, in his letter told the board that after he had tried unsuccessfully to find work in Orange county he decided to make a trip along the route of the Metropolitan Water District aqueduct in quest for work. He said that before leaving on his trip he went to the welfare department and asked that his family be provided with food. When his wife applied for aid she was informed that nothing could be done, he alleged, unless she signed a complaint for a warrant charging him with non-support. When this was done, Dunmeade's letter said, she was given a grocery order for $4.50.

At Mecca, the letter said, he turned back and retraced his steps to Riverside county where he found employment on a turkey ranch and notified his wife. She told him at the ranch that she had signed a warrant and informed him that the welfare department officials had told her that if her husband would return he would be put to work. Dunmeade's wife told him, according to the letter, that had he remained at home he would have been among the first to receive assignment to CWA work.

Acting on this information, he said, he quit his job and returned only to be told that he would have to register at Garden Grove in order to find employment. This he did but, according to his letter, has found no work.

He also charged that his landlord, acting on the advice of the welfare department, has started proceedings to evict him from the house in which he lives for non-payment of rent and the electric lights and gas are about to be turned off at his home. The welfare department, he said, is supplying the family with food.

Second Complaint

A second complaint was read to the board and turned over to Supervisor George Jeffrey for investigation. This was the request of Inez Costruita that the board place her 11-year-old brother and 13-year-old sister on the orphan aid roles. She said that the welfare department had declined to assist her to pay rent on their house.

According to her request her parents came to the United States from Mexico in 1915 and moved to Orange county in 1925 and her father died the same year. The mother died in 1930. The younger children are citizens of the United States. The writer of the letter said that she is employed by Mrs. Ray Lambert for five days a week at a wage of $4 and with this she is clothing and feeding her brother and sister and 79-year-old grandmother.

When she applied for aid with her rent the welfare department suggested that she move in one of the department's houses at Stanton which offer was refused she said because it was too far away for her to secure work. The application for orphan aid was approved by Mrs. Ray Lambert and Mrs. Edith Ritter Lambert added a note to the request urging that the family be assisted.

Faced with four additional counts of committing a statutory offense against school girls, W. L. Hicks, grocer, appeared in justice court this morning and was held to answer to the superior court by Judge Kenneth Morrison.

Hicks was tried on five similar counts several weeks ago and found guilty on one, not guilty on two, had one dismissed and one disagreed upon by the jury. The latter case will be retried and the date for trial set Friday in superior court.

Hicks was sentenced to spend one year in the county jail with five years of probation on the count where the jury found him guilty. He is being represented by Tom McFadden.

BILLIONS
The amount of money Mr. Roosevelt is going to borrow in the next six months is ten times greater than the number of minutes (CAP) elapsing since the birth of Christ.

It is nearly twice as much as there is in the United States. Only by such comparisons is it possible to estimate how much ten billion dollars is. Since the birth of Christ, 1933 years have elapsed, 705,545, days, 16,932,960 hours and 1,015,584,800 minutes (not counting extra days for leap year).

The amount of money in circulation is $5,700,000,000. (Federal Reserve Bank).

LOOPHOLES
The President's task is not impossible, although it certainly is gigantic.

He can get more than two billions in profit for the treasury by cutting the gold reserve behind the dollar fifty per cent. (Monetary gold stocks amount to around $4,300,000,000.)

Of the ten billion total, four billions are refunding operations on money already borrowed. He will have little trouble renewing that amount, although he will undoubtedly be compelled to offer a higher interest rate.

So if he devalues all he really needs to get is four billions fresh new money. He can cut down that necessity by failing to spend all that he now contemplates.

COST
The interest rate he has been paying for short term paper since October 11 tells a little inside story.

On that date he was able to borrow 60 or 90 day money at 12-100s of 1 per cent, an unusually low figure.

Since then the occasional (virtually weekly) rate has run the scale (in one hundredths of one per cent) as follows: 13, 22, 24, 40, 43, 45, 60, 74, 73, 62.

You will notice the last figure shows him paying five times as much for short term paper as he did October 11.

MEANING
There are two sides to that story. One class of financial experts will tell you that the proximity of a nation to bankruptcy can be measured by what it pays for short term paper.

The other side says the condition of the money market has more to do with the rate than the credit standing of the borrower. They seem to be more nearly right.

Either side will agree that even the topmost figures cited above are very low rates. Over nearly any long term period they will average much higher. You will notice also that the rate dropped for the last three weeks, but the last figure came before the budget message was given out.

The rates are so low because the banks are filled to the brim with cash and there is no place for the bankers to put it, except in short term governments.

Now that the budget is out the rate is sure to climb. The extent of the climb will be very interesting to watch.

RESIGNATION
You can score another run for the Senate Stock Market investigations on the resignation of Earle Baillie from the Treasury department.

The investigators secretly dug up Baillie's complete record in connection with the organization of investment trusts which have failed as well as with Peruvian bonds. They planned to make a holy show of it in the Senate when Treasury Secretary Morgenthau's nomination came up for discussion.

Baillie announced his resignation before the sharpshooters had a chance to get at him.

BANGING
General Johnson was banging his fist away at a table during a code hearing one day, when he was amazed to see two men jump up in the back of the room and start storming and banging as much or more.

The General did not know who they were, but he was so taken back by the display that he shouted to one of them:

SUGGEST PLAN FOR FORMATION OF CWA BAND

A county-wide band and orchestra composed of musicians unemployed at present, and subsidized through the CWA, was pictured by the city council yesterday by Ted D. Collins, 526 South Sycamore street, when he asked for the sending of the council before going before the CWA authorities.

Collins outlined his plan in having musical organizations available for all types of civic and entertainment programs. Beneficial work would be given to children unable to afford instruction and unemployed musicians would be able to earn a little money, he said. The players would be paid on the usual scale for unskilled labor. In event such a band was approved under the CWA provisions which allow educational and cultural projects, Collins entered his application to be director of the new group.

The application forms had already been signed by Mayor L. A. Hogue, of Brea, Mayor Frank Champion of Laguna Beach, Mayor Tom Murphy of San Clemente, Mayor William Huntley of Tustin, Mayor Hermann Hilmer of Newport Beach and Mayor A. B. Thumber of La Habra. Finding no objection in the Santa Ana city council, Mayor Paul Wittmer signed the petition.

COUNTY SCHOOL COSTS HIGHER THAN AVERAGE

BY MELVIN LORD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 9.—(UP)—Drastic reductions in the expenditures of California public elementary and high schools were made during the year 1932-33, a survey made by the state department of education revealed today.

The average expenditure per pupil for elementary school was $38.40, as compared to the 1930-31 peak of $102.39, and the average for high school pupils was $143.58. A sharp reduction from the 1930-31 peak of $102.39, and the average for high school pupils was $143.58. A sharp reduction from the 1930-31 peak of $102.39, and the average for high school pupils was $143.58.

In comparison to the state-wide average, Orange county spent $90.93 per elementary school pupil and $176.75 for each of its high school students.

Expenditures for the 1932-33 school year, as revealed in the survey, included elementary schools, $56,468,034.03; high schools, $55,000,170.07, and junior colleges, $3,227,348.05. These totals do not include building expenses and other capital outlay, officials said.

Special Edition Of Jaycee Paper On School Bonds

El Don, Santa Ana Junior college weekly, will be distributed next week to all school children in Santa Ana, and delivered to every home in which there are children attending the city schools, James Torrens, editor, announced today.

The issue, another special edition, will carry two extra pages and will include much information on the proposed bond issue for rebuilding high school and junior college buildings in accordance with state requirements.

The papers will be distributed to the children of the elementary schools by the teachers, and the high school will furnish delivery boys to carry it to all other homes.

FARM LOAN ASSOCIATION FOR COUNTY IS APPROVED; $330,500 IN LOANS OKAYED

Word of the approval of the charter for the Orange County National Farm Loan association was received today by C. A. Palmer, secretary, from officials of the Federal Land Bank at Berkeley.

At the same time, Palmer announced that the Orange County National Farm Loan association now has 26 loans in escrow to be paid out in the near future, including $53,700 in Land Bank commissioner loans and $105,100 in Federal Land Bank loans.

There are also three approvals not yet in escrow amounting to $10,200 in commissioner loans and $30,000 in federal loan bank loans. In addition to these, Palmer said, there are 70 other loans that have been approved by the federal land bank and by the local committee amounting to $158,500 that will be placed in escrow as soon as the approval blanks arrive from Berkeley.

This makes a total of $330,500 which has been approved in loans to Orange county agriculturists, most of which has been approved since liberalization of the land bank policy in Orange county.

Policy Liberalized
"The policy for loans has been liberalized and at the present time a person having a good water supply and with first class orange trees as an enhancement to their property, may obtain a loan in the neighborhood of $750 an acre," Palmer declared.

Prior to a concrete drive made last fall by Santa Ana business men and officials the highest loan was at $500 per acre and much delay experienced in getting loans through.

In August, 1933, the federal land bank of Berkeley appointed a local agent in Orange county to write direct loans for farm lands. Since that time there have been 292 applications sent to the bank and there are about 25 more applications that are nearly complete and ready to forward to the bank in the near future.

Recently, the federal farm land commissioner at Washington interpreted the law to read that there can be no more closing of direct loans in any county in which there is operating an association. He advised formation of an association in Orange county at once.

On December 3, 1933, all persons who had made application in this county were called together at the Willard junior high school and elected a temporary board of directors composed of Dr. J. W. Harpster, president; H. H. Hale, vice president; Harold Brewer, Vernon C. Heil and Hugh J. Plumb.

At that time it was voted to form an association to be known as the Orange County National Farm Loan association. The proper papers were filled out and sent to Washington, and the telegram received by Palmer brought word of the approval of the organization by government authorities.

The office of the association is situated at 618 1/2 North Main street, Santa Ana, and the telephone number is 5702. Anyone desiring information concerning refinancing may call at the office or telephone for the information, Palmer announced.

Making new terms with the city for the disposal of garbage, C. P. Price, rancher, agreed to a new two-year contract at the city council meeting last night.

Price has purchased city garbage for the past 14 years in raising hogs for the commercial market. He handles about eight tons daily but stated he could not afford to continue paying for the refuse unless wholesale prices for fat hogs increased. His proposition to the council which was finally altered somewhat and agreed upon, stipulated that nothing is to be paid for garbage until hog prices raise to six cents per pound. When this level is reached, he is to pay 50 cents per ton, with 25 cents being added for each cent that the price raises.

His present contract expires on January 31 so City Attorney Clyde Downing authorized to draw up a new agreement to run for the next two years.

L. A. ENGINEERS ASK ADVISORY CITY HALL JOB

Urging that they be employed as consulting engineers during the construction of the new city hall to insure structural safety in regard to earthquakes, a letter from Holmes and Narver, Los Angeles engineers, was read to the council yesterday.

The communication pointed out that the city needed a thoroughly earthquake-proof building and that they would cooperate with the architects if employed. In return for preparing detailed plans, supervising the work during days of construction, and working with the architects, a fee of $1500 was asked.

The council took no action on the matter but decided to confer with H. C. Wildman, architects. City Auditor Lloyd Banks, in Los Angeles today on legal matters pertaining to the city hall, was asked to learn if possible whether a charge for consulting engineers would be included under the architects' fee or under any of the funds from the government.

Holmes and Narver did considerable work in Santa Ana during the earthquake last year and examined the former city hall before it was torn down.

EXCELLENT RECIPE FOR CATARRH, CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES
If you know of some one who is troubled with Catarrhal Deafness, or head noises or ordinary catarrh cut out this formula and hand it to them and you may have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. Scientists for a long time past have recognized that Catarrh is a constitutional disease and necessarily requires constitutional treatment.
Sprays, inhalers and nose douches are liable to irritate the delicate air passages and force the disease into the middle ear which frequently means total deafness or else the disease may be driven down the air passages towards the lungs which is equally as dangerous. The following formula which is used extensively is a constitutional treatment and should prove especially efficacious to sufferers.
Secure from Walgreen's, McCoy Drug, or your druggist 1 ounce of Permin (Double strength). Take this home and add to it 1/2 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. This will often bring quick relief from distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should be open, breathing become easy and hearing improve as the inflammation in the eustachian tubes is reduced. Permin used in this way acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system and has a tonic action that helps to obtain the desired results. The preparation is easy to make, costs little and is pleasant to take. Every person who has catarrh or head noises or is hard of hearing should give this treatment a trial.

SUGGEST PLAN FOR CWA BAND

A county-wide band and orchestra composed of musicians unemployed at present, and subsidized through the CWA, was pictured to the city council yesterday by Ted D. Collins, 526 South Sycamore street, when he asked for the sentiment of the council before going before the CWA authorities.

Collins outlined his plan in having musical organizations available for all types of civic and entertainment programs. Beneficial work would be given to children unable to afford instruction and unemployed musicians would be able to earn a little money, he said. The players would be paid on the usual scale for unskilled labor. In event such a band was approved under the CWA provisions which allow educational and cultural projects, Collins entered his application to be director of the new groups.

The application forms had already been signed by Mayor L. A. Hogue, of Brea, Mayor Frank Chapman of Laguna Beach, Mayor Tom Murphy of San Clemente, Mayor William Huntley of Tustin, Mayor Hermann Hilmer of Newport Beach and Mayor A. B. Thumber of La Habra. Finding no objection in the Santa Ana city council, Mayor Paul Witmer signed the petition.

BY MELVIN LORD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 9.—(UP)—Drastic reductions in the expenditures of California public elementary and high schools were made during the year 1932-33, a survey made by the state department of education revealed today.

The average expenditure per pupil for elementary school was $86.40, as compared to the 1930-31 peak of $102.39, and the average for high school pupils was $144.48, a sharp reduction from the $193.66 of the year 1929-30. In both cases the average was the lowest in the last 10 years, the department reported.

In comparison to the state-wide average, Orange county spent $90.93 per elementary school pupil and $176.75 for each of its high school students.

Expenditures for the 1932-33 school year, as revealed in the survey, included elementary schools, $56,468,034.03; high schools, $53,000,170.07, and junior colleges, $3,227,345.05. These totals do not include building expenses and other capital outlay, officials said.

The issue, another special edition, will carry two extra pages and will include much information on the proposed bond issue for rebuilding high school and junior college buildings in accordance with state requirements.

The papers will be distributed to the children of the elementary schools by the teachers, and the high school will furnish delivery boys to carry it to all other homes.

Special Edition Of Jaycee Paper On School Bonds

El Don, Santa Ana Junior college weekly, will be distributed next week to all school children in Santa Ana, and delivered to every home in which there are no children attending the city schools, James Torrens, editor, announced today.

The papers will be distributed to the children of the elementary schools by the teachers, and the high school will furnish delivery boys to carry it to all other homes.

FARM LOAN ASSOCIATION FOR COUNTY IS APPROVED; $330,500 IN LOANS OKAYED

Word of the approval of the charter for the Orange County National Farm Loan association was received today by C. A. Palmer, secretary, from officials of the Federal Land Bank at Berkeley.

At the same time, Palmer announced that the Orange County National Farm Loan association now has 26 loans in escrow to be paid out in the near future, including $53,700 in Land Bank commissioner loans and $105,100 in Federal Land Bank loans.

There are also three approvals not yet in escrow amounting to $10,200 in commissioner loans and $3000 in federal land bank loans. In addition to these, Palmer said, there are 70 other loans that have been approved by the federal land bank and by the local committee amounting to $158,500 that will be placed in escrow as soon as the approval blanks arrive from Berkeley.

This makes a total of $330,500 which has been approved in loans to Orange county agriculturists, most of which has been approved since the liberalization of the land bank policy in Orange county.

Policy Liberalized
"The policy for loans has been liberalized and at the present time a person having a good water supply and with first class orange trees as an enhancement to their property, may obtain a loan in the neighborhood of $750 an acre," Palmer declared.

Prior to a concrete drive made last fall by Santa Ana business men and officials the highest loan was at $500 per acre and much delay experienced in getting loans through.

In August, 1933, the federal land bank of Berkeley appointed a local agent in Orange county to write direct loans for farm lands. Since that time there have been 299 applications sent to the bank and there are about 25 more applications that are nearly complete and ready to forward to the bank in the near future.

Recently, the federal farm land commissioner at Washington interpreted the law to read that there can be no more closing of direct loans in any county in which there is operating an association. He advised formation of an association in Orange county at once.

YOU CAN'T BEAT 'EM

New York has been having an inquiry into the blubber business. It seems one of Mons. Jacques Curley's former pachyderms, one J. Hassen Pfeffer, being a rascal man, wasn't done right by and decided to blow the whistle. Quite a hubbub among the huffers and puffers has ensued, with the state athletic commission getting a terrible earful of misplaced principles.

YOU NEVER KNOW

Mons. Curley himself, who for years has been a keeper of pachyderms on his Long Island farm, or so, told me once that he couldn't depend on the wrestlers himself, and at the time he was feeding some 15 or 20 of them.

"I have promoted wrestling matches," said Mons. Curley, "and I have managed wrestlers in all parts of the world. And not only have I always been uncertain as to how a given match would end, but I never have been sure there would be a show until I saw both of the principals in the ring."

ZBYZKO-ROLLER

Mons. Curley told of a piece of promotion he once attempted in Vienna. Doctor Roller was to wrestle Stanislaus Zbyzko at the Circus Busch. Curley wrote his publicity, had it translated and distributed it to the newspapers, which gave the show generous allowance.

By chance, Curley met Franz Ferdinand, Crown Prince of Aus-

Curley dashed to the railroad station, and caught a train for Cracow with seconds to spare. After an all-night trip and a mad dash in a decrepit hack through the streets of the Polish city, he reached the Zbyzko home.

DELAY CAPTAINCY

Election of a 1934 football captain for Santa Ana Junior college has been postponed indefinitely, and it is probable that no selection will be made until next fall, according to Coach Bill Cook of the Dons.

During past seasons captains have been elected, but only an introduction of players and the awarding of letters were made by the Santa Ana coach at the big dinner in the junior college cafeteria last night.

Miles Norton, tackle, was acting captain during the past season, following an injury which benched Captain "Bono" Koral before the league season opened.

address with interesting anecdotes. He described football as an entirely different sport than when he began as a player at Cornell, but said the constant change was keeping football virile.

"Pop" said he considered himself the next thing to a Santa Ana, because he had been associated with many players and coaches from this city, naming George Baker, Ray Dawson, Walt Heinicke, "Tex" Oliver, Bill Cole, "Chuck" Winterburn and Bill Cook, and because his late father lived here for some time.

Nixon Makes Hit

Pomona's Nixon—"Genial Gene"—lived up to his cognomen with a breezy, good-humored discussion of generalities, including the fate that brought him as a speaker to "tell Mr. Stagg and 'Pop' Warner how to teach football."

Elmer Layden, fullback of the "Four Horsemen," has been named football coach and athletic director at Notre Dame for next season.

SMITH TO DECIDE ON AUBURN'S OFFER

On his arrival today from Honolulu where his Santa Clara football team was victorious in two games, Coach "Clipper" Smith was expected to definitely announce whether he will accept or decline a bid to coach Alabama Poly.

Smith admitted he had the bid under consideration and would reach a decision today.

Smith said all he knew of the Alabama Poly was a cablegram he received in the islands, asking if he was interested.

"If there is a letter waiting for me at Santa Clara giving details and the terms are lucrative, I'll go to Auburn and talk it over."

MARTY BRILL SIGNS TO COACH LA SALLE

DONS END BEST SEASON. HEAR STAGG, WARNER

Santa Ana junior college's most successful football season was officially at an end today, but Coach Bill Cook's troupe of players, and scores of their admirers, will remember for years the formal fade-out at the Associated Students' annual banquet on the campus last night.

Banqueted by their classmates and awarded handsome block letters for their part in winning for Santa Ana the Southern California Jaycee championship of '32, the Dons thrilled to the presence and voices of two of football's immortals—A. A. Stagg and "Pop" Warner—as well as such notables as Eugene Nixon and "Jeff" Cravath.

Through a happy coincidence, it was the first time that Stagg and Warner, deans of the coaching profession, ever had sat at the same table in their forty-odd years of close association.

Coach Stagg, Chicago U's coach for 41 seasons, now at 72 starting a "new adventure" at the College of the Pacific, was the principal speaker. He delivered a typically forceful discourse on football and the benefits to be derived from it.

The audience saluted Coach Stagg's introduction by Dean McKee Plisk by rising.

The "Old Man of the Midway" was obviously touched by the unexpected demonstration.

Expressing amazement at the record of the Dons, Coach Stagg launched into a discussion of athletics in general, pointing as his moral the spirit of co-operation and self-sacrifice essential to successful competition.

"Victory is not everything," he warned. "I've found that more can be gained from defeat, if the participant has the courage to 'come-back'."

Warner was introduced by Postmaster T. E. Stephenson. Speaking in his low, booming voice, the "Old Fox" illustrated his brief address with interesting anecdotes. He described football as an entirely different sport than when he began as a player at Cornell, but said the constant change was keeping football virile.

"Pop" said he considered himself the next thing to a Santa Ana, because he had been associated with many players and coaches from this city, naming George Baker, Ray Dawson, Walt Heinicke, "Tex" Oliver, Bill Cole, "Chuck" Winterburn and Bill Cook, and because his late father lived here for some time.

Nixon Makes Hit

Pomona's Nixon—"Genial Gene"—lived up to his cognomen with a breezy, good-humored discussion of generalities, including the fate that brought him as a speaker to "tell Mr. Stagg and 'Pop' Warner how to teach football."

Elmer Layden, fullback of the "Four Horsemen," has been named football coach and athletic director at Notre Dame for next season.

SMITH TO DECIDE ON AUBURN'S OFFER

On his arrival today from Honolulu where his Santa Clara football team was victorious in two games, Coach "Clipper" Smith was expected to definitely announce whether he will accept or decline a bid to coach Alabama Poly.

Smith admitted he had the bid under consideration and would reach a decision today.

Smith said all he knew of the Alabama Poly was a cablegram he received in the islands, asking if he was interested.

"If there is a letter waiting for me at Santa Clara giving details and the terms are lucrative, I'll go to Auburn and talk it over."

COAST LEAGUE BALL SCHEDULE OPENS APRIL 3

OAKLAND, Jan. 9.—(UP)—The Pacific Coast league will play a 26-week schedule opening April 3, according to the official schedule released today after a meeting of the club owners here.

Advocates of a split season lost their appeals through the decision to present an unbroken campaign ending the week of Sept. 30. However, in a post-season series the league champions and a team of all-stars chosen from the other seven teams will be presented throughout the league territory.

The club owners restored the price schedule existing before the season, making general admission 40 cents instead of 25 cents, and raising grandstand seats to 75 cents and box seats to "more than 75 cents."

The same type of ball as adopted by the major leagues was accepted as the "official ball" of the coast league rules permitted Jack Picus Quinn, baseball's grand old veteran to use his "split-ball" if and when he is signed by a league club.

The magnates decided to number the players on each club and to award a cup to the "most valuable player in the league" at the end of the season.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—(UP)—The big wrestling explosion was to go "bang" at the New York state athletic commission's headquarters today, but astute observers believed that rains of the past week dampened Jack "Hassen" Pfeffer's dynamite and that the investigation would fizzle out.

The debonair Pfeffer, the disgruntled ambassador of the mat—now without portfolio—who charged at last week's commission meeting that wrestling was a racket and that results of matches were pre-arranged.

Pfeffer, who can do airplane scissor and body slams with the king's English, said last night, "maybe no nodding will happen at a meeting, since Rudy Miller run away from me."

It seems nothing is sacred in wrestling. Pfeffer had depended on Miller to substantiate his charges, but Miller suddenly was offered a lucrative position in the Curley camp.

Pfeffer has no proofs to offer, and since Miller deserted him it's a case of his word against the denials of the others.

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—(INS)—Three teams—Iowa, Purdue and Indiana—remained undefeated today in the Western conference basketball championship race.

Each scored its second conference victory of the season last night as all ten teams went into action.

Indiana gave Wisconsin its second defeat of the season, by a score of 32-26, in a hard fought game at Iowa City.

Purdue beat Illinois at LaFayette, 36 to 21 despite a stubborn Illinois defense.

Indiana scored a rough and tumble victory over Ohio State, 38 to 22, at Bloomington.

Michigan's quintet showed an improved offensive that triumphed over Chicago, 34 to 18, at Ann Arbor.

Northwestern scored its first conference victory with a 33 to 26 decision over Minnesota at Evanston.

California Loses To Clubmen, 30-20

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 9.—(UP)—The United A. C. defeated the University of California basketball team here last night 30-20.

COLLEGE FIVES TOE RACE LINE FRIDAY NIGHT

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 9.—The Southern section of the Pacific Coast conference basketball teams wound up preliminary skirmishes today, prepared to set out on the conference trail Friday with California and Southern California figured as the teams to beat.

The Bears and the Trojans completed highly satisfactory barnstorming treks during the holidays and were set with tall and rangy veterans to carry on the conference wars.

On the other hand, U. C. L. A. and Stanford were defeated quite freely by preliminary opponents and seemed victims of the old adage that a "good big man can beat a good little man."

Coach Sam Barry at U. S. C. figures that he has enough veteran material again to reach the championship division as he did last year. He even hoped that he may have enough power to capture the conference title, as he did not do last year when Oregon State won two out of three games to upset the Trojans.

Troy May Miss Nemer

Barry must replace Jerry Nemer, the star of three seasons for Troy. For this purpose, he has Ward Brownings, a football end, and Ernie Holbrook, a recognized sharpshooter.

Lee Guttero, one of the best centers on the circuit last season, is back in good form. Captain Sax Elliot, fastest man on the squad, appears to have clinched forward opposite Brownings and Holbrook.

Joe Kelly and Julius Bescoe, veteran guards, are well supported by ambitious newcomers so the Trojan defense should be strong.

U. C. L. A. has a small but fast team which functions largely on the ability of Captain Don Piper, forward. When Piper is good the Bruins seem to roll up points, but when the captain suffers a bad night, the whole squad appears to suffer.

Alex Widielke, forward, and "Duke" Trotter, giant guard, are other mainstays. Trotter is the only big man on the squad, weighing 220 pounds.

Topping Rejoins Stanford

Stanford's rather dismal early-season showing failed to leave the Palo Alto collegians without hope. The return to the squad of Keith Topping, a special ambassador of the coast football team, seemed to indicate increasing strength.

Anderson and Gorter, a pair of junior college transfers, and Hal Edelen, veteran guard, are other standouts.

Coach "Nils" Price of California should have the largest team in the conference. He can place a quintet of regulars on the floor, each towering six feet or more and averaging 200 pounds. Dave Meek, huge football end, has recovered from a knee injury and played at top form in warm-up games.

High scorer for the Bears in preliminary contests was Captain Hal Elbert, veteran forward. He was ably aided by Bill Coughlan and George Englehart, with Dave McDaffey, also a veteran heading the guarding department.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—(UP)—The big wrestling explosion was to go "bang" at the New York state athletic commission's headquarters today, but astute observers believed that rains of the past week dampened Jack "Hassen" Pfeffer's dynamite and that the investigation would fizzle out.

New Coach Cherishes Rockne Tradition Above All

SAYS GOODBYE TO DUQUESNE

BY DAVIS J. WALSH (L.N.S. Sports Editor)

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 9.—"But," the man's voice deepened unaccountably and seemed to fall an octave. "But he was Rockne. He was the master."

Elmer Layden, back for the last time on this curious little campus that seems to hang almost by friction above the roar of a city's streets, was trying to explain a few popular delusions to a few of the few facts. The most interesting of these, I would say, was the observation that the Notre Dame system, all told, was just another way of getting the ball in motion. He didn't say so, but the impression I got that the system would work as well, at least under the modern rules, from a standing start.

Layden was back in town after a trip to Florida at the head of his victorious Duquesne university team, the last they will take together after seven years of an intimate all too rare between a coach and his team. He goes to answer the higher call at Notre Dame in about three weeks and, while this is only another impression, I think he feels that he'll be treading hallowed grounds. After all, his manner seemed to say, it is necessary to explain why it is that only Rockne was Rockne.

Briefly, Layden was willing to talk about almost anything except the situation at Notre Dame.

"It would be a presumption for me to sit here in Pittsburgh and say what ought to happen in South Bend," he said. "Remember, I haven't been back there much in the last few years. Remember, too, that I'm not yet in charge of Notre Dame football."

He was, however, of a mind to discuss the Notre Dame system in general and did so with surprising candor. Why was it that Notre Dame coaches at other colleges, so thoroughly grounded in the Rockne tradition, differed by subtle shades and degrees in its

There seemed to be no good answer to that and, in much the same manner, there was none to his rejoinder when mention was made of the fact that Notre Dame's first varsity seems to be graduating in a body.

"I'm not going to start out by losing games in January," said he.

The idea seems reasonable, at that.

VON ELM DROPS BEHIND: SMITH 'OPEN' WINNER

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 9.—(UP)—Willie Hunter of Los Angeles took two par fours today in his two-hole finish to tie Bill Mehlnhorn for second place in the Los Angeles Open golf tournament with 288.

Needing only two fours for 287 and undisputed second place, George Von Elm of Los Angeles took fives on both holes, for a 289 and a tie with Willie Goggin and Johnny Revolta for third place.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 9.—(UP)—"A corner," they called him when the gawky Scotch youth tied for the United States Open at Philadelphia in 1910.

MacDonald Smith was still coming today, 24 years later, with his four Los Angeles Open golf championship tucked away by a safe five strokes or more.

The old professor, looking as if he'd absently left his spectacles behind, trudged sedately around the difficult Los Angeles Country club layout yesterday, swinging with lazy certainty to put together two brilliant rounds of 69 and 68 and break the field wide apart.

When he started the afternoon round, he was tied with Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y., and Bill Mehlnhorn of Louisville, Ky., and one stroke behind Olin Dutra of Santa Monica, Cal.

Dutra, Runyan Crack

When he walked off the 15th green with his 68, he had broken under bitter last-round pressure while Dutra, Runyan and Mehlnhorn were cracking open to take 73, 78 and 75 respectively.

His reaction was characteristic. Presented with a check for $1463, a ceremony at which his younger colleagues have been known to turn handsprings, the old gentleman yawned and said: "Thank you very much; I think I'll turn in. I'm not as young as I was," and tottered off to bed.

Second place remained undecided, pending today's two-hole finish by George Von Elm and Willie Hunter of Los Angeles. Darkness overtook them yesterday and they picked up the morning round when Dutra took a 73, three over par, Runyan a 74 but Dutra still led the pack at the three-quarter pole, by one stroke, with Runyan, Smith and Mehlnhorn bunched a stroke behind.

In the debacle that followed, the old professor didn't need a 69 to win, but he got it, from the force of his "young" habit.

The golfing pack moves today to San Francisco for the annual San Francisco match play open, which begins Thursday.

The finishers:

280—MacDonald Smith, Nashville, Tenn.; Bill Mehlnhorn, Louisville, Ky.; Willie Goggin, San Francisco; John Revolta, Milwaukee.

289—Wiffy Coy, Brooklyn; Paul Runyan, White Plains, N. Y.; Olin Dutra, Santa Monica, Cal.

291—Ky Laffoon, Denver; John Rogers, Denver.

293—Bill Corpey, Kansas City; Joe Kirkwood, Miami; Charles Seaver, Los Angeles.

YOU CAN'T BEAT 'EM

New York has been having an inquiry into the blubber business. It seems one of Mons. Jacques Curley's former pachyderms, one J. Hassen Pfeffer, beeg rattle man, wasn't done right by and decided to blow the whistle. Quite a hubbub among the huffers and puffers has ensued, with the state athletic commission getting a terrible earful of misplaced certainties.

Pfeffer's proclamation that the wrestling racket isn't on the square must be ranked high among the searching revelations of the age. If Pfeffer Pfeffer had solemnly announced that the Chinese are given to the drinking of tea and eating of rice, he hardly could have shocked the world more.

YOU NEVER KNOW

Mons. Curley himself, who for years has been a keeper of pachyderms on his Long Island farm, or two, told me once that he couldn't depend on the wrestlers himself, and at the time he was feeding some 15 or 20 of them.

"I have promoted wrestling matches," said Mons. Curley, "and I have managed wrestlers in all parts of the world. And not only have I always been uncertain as to how a given match would end, but I never have been sure there would be a show until I saw both of the principals in the ring."

ZBYZKO-ROLLER

Mons. Curley told of a piece of promotion he once attempted in Vienna. Doctor Roller was to wrestle Stanislaus Zbyzsko at the Circus Busch. Curley wrote his publicity, had it translated and distributed it to the newspapers, which gave the show generous allowance.

By chance, Curley met Franz Ferdinand, Crown Prince of Austria, whose assassination at Sarajevo some years later was to precipitate the World War. He invited the prince to see the match as his guest. His highness, a mat fan himself, accepted heartily.

The night before the match Curley received a telegram from Zbyzsko, who was visiting relatives in Cracow, stating the he had injured a knee and the bout must be called off. Curley was wild. He hastily telephoned Zibby, but the only answers he could get from the famous Pole were wrong.

THAT INJURED KNEE

Curley dashed to the railroad station, and caught a train for Cracow with seconds to spare. After an all-night trip and a mad dash in a decrepit hack through the streets of the Polish city, he reached the Zbyzsko home. Pounding on the door without response, Curley pitched a stone through a window on the second floor.

The startled Zbyzsko finally admitted him. With minutes to spare before the next train departed for Vienna, Curley tossed Zibby's clothes into a grip while the wrestler was dressing. Then he dragged him into the cab and away they went to the station, barely making the train as it pulled out.

They were well on the way to Vienna before Zbyzsko was fully awake.

"How did I get here?" he asked. "Never mind that," replied Mons. Curley. "You are here—how about that knee?" "Is it hurt seriously?"

Then Zbyzsko's amazing reply: "My knee is all right. I didn't want to wrestle tonight because my friends in Cracow are giving a reception in honor of my homecoming from my travels!"

And how would you like to do business with people like that?

STONEHOUSE BEATS DOW IN MIAMI GOLF

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 9.—(UP)—Ralph Stonehouse, 29-year-old Indianapolis professional, today was $500 richer by virtue of his victory yesterday over Willie Dow, veteran Miami pro, in the 18-hole play-off for first money in the Miami Open golf tournament.

Stonehouse carded 36-35-71 over the Miami Springs course, to finish four strokes ahead of 48-year-old Dow.

DELAY CAPTAINCY

Election of a 1934 football captain for Santa Ana junior college has been postponed indefinitely, and it is probable that no election will be made until next fall, according to Coach Bill Cook of the Dons.

During past seasons captains have been elected at the annual banquet, but only an introduction of players and the awarding of letters were made by the Santa Ana coach at the big dinner in the junior college cafeteria last night.

Miles Norton, tackle, was acting captain during the past season, following an injury which benched Captain "Bomo" Koral before the league season opened.

Pomona's Nixon, "Gentle Gene" lived up to his cognomen with a breezy, good-humored discussion of generalities, including the fate that brought him as a speaker to "tell Mr. Stagg and 'Pop' Warner how to teach football."

Howard Jones, Southern California's "Head Man," was unable to attend but was ably represented by one of his lieutenants, Cravath, who talked briefly and introduced two well known Trojan players, Curt Youel and Larry Stevens. Cravath called Stevens the best guard in the country. Lawrence Lutz, all-coast tackle at California, also was introduced, along with Coaches Bill Cole of Tustin and John Ward of Garden Grove.

Introducing his players, Coach Cook called out letter-winners to the speakers' table where Mr. Stagg greeted each with a hearty handshake as he gave them their numbers. Those rewarded:

Ends—Paul Purnich, Ben Slavin, Byron Stoddard, Ward Gunther and Frank Krieger.

Tackles—Miles Norton, Walt Devine, Horace Ritter and "Bud" Boyle.

Guards—Loren Lutz, Sam Taylor, Ray Nowotny, Bob Hater, Zeno Shelley and Ray Waser.

He didn't say so, but the impression I got that the system would work as well, at least under the modern rules, from a standing start.

Layden was back in town after a trip to Florida at the head of his victorious Duquesne university team, the last they will take to the field after seven years of an intimate all-around relationship between a coach and his team. He goes to answer the higher call at Notre Dame in about three weeks and, while this is only another imposed pressure, I think he feels that he'll be treading hallowed grounds. After all, his manner seemed to say, is it necessary to explain why it is that only Rockne was Rockne?

Briefly, Layden was willing to talk about almost anything except the situation at Notre Dame. "It would be a presumption for me to sit here in Pittsburgh and say what ought to happen in South Bend," he said. "Remember, I haven't been back there much in the last few years. Remember, too, that I'm not yet in charge of Notre Dame football. I'm only going to be."

He was, however, of a mind to discuss the Notre Dame system in general and did so with surprising candor. Why was it that Notre Dame coaches at other colleges, so thoroughly grounded in the Rockne tradition, differed by subtle shades and degrees in its application? Easy. Notre Dame systems were forever meeting Notre Dame systems and nobody would ever get anywhere if all had the same stuff.

But, said the inquiring reporter, Rockne kept meeting other Notre Dame systems and he didn't seem to be giving away any advantage by using the stuff they all knew so well.

"Ah," Mr. Layden sat up very suddenly as though about to shoot. Instead, his voice sank and became almost wordless.

"But Rockne was the master." And there you have a picture of the man who played under Rockne, carried his tradition elsewhere and now is to take his place. Layden may be no Rockne. He certainly doesn't think he is. But in the matter of refreshing frankness, he has one thing in common with the man who is gone.

Concerning the Notre Dame system, for instance, there's nothing occult about it, it seems. It's merely a means of getting a play or a series of plays under way. But, as sure, it's the best there is; at least, that's Layden's notion.

"The rules against the shift have forced alterations in the formations from time to time," he added, "and in certain ways, have made us compromise the original maneuvers. But they haven't changed the basic features of the attack, which are blocking and quick openings and thrusts. These are nothing more than sound football, applied in the most ingenious and interesting way."

"We win with it and the crowd gets a show. What more can you ask?"

There seemed to be no good answer to that and, in much the same manner, there was none to his rejoinder when mention was made of the fact that Notre Dame's first varsity seems to be graduating in a body.

"I'm not going to start out by losing games in January," said Layden. The idea seems reasonable, at that.

YALE, DARTMOUTH ANNOUNCE NEW GRID HEADS THIS WEEK

BY JACK CUDDY (United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—Two more of the high-time Eastern universities were reported seeking football coaching talent in the mid-west today, despite the hefty ballot the Columbia Lions cast in the Rose Bowl in favor of the Atlantic brand of play.

VON ELM DROPS BEHIND: SMITH 'OPEN' WINNER

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 9.—(UP)—Willie Goggin, a Los Angeles took two par fours today in his two-hole finish, to tie Bill Mehlhorn for second place in the Los Angeles Open golf tournament with 288.

Needing only two fours for 287 and undisputed second place, George Von Elm of Los Angeles took five on both holes, for a 289 and a tie with Willie Goggin and Johnny Revolta for third place.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 9.—(UP)—"A conner," they called him when the gawky Scotch youth tied for the United States Open at Philadelphia in 1910.

MacDonald Smith was still coming today, 24 years later, with his fourth Los Angeles Open championship tucked away by a safe five strokes or more.

The old professor, looking as if he'd absent left his spectacles behind, trudged sedately around the difficult Los Angeles Country club layout yesterday, swinging with lazy certainty to put together two brilliant rounds of 69 and 68 and break the field wide apart.

When he started the afternoon round, he was tied with Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y., and Bill Mehlhorn of Louisville, Ky., and one stroke behind Olin Dutra of Santa Monica, Calif.

Dutra, Runyan Crack When he walked off the 18th green with his 68, he had broken par under bitter last-round pressure while Dutra, Runyan and Mehlhorn were cracking open to take 73, 78 and 76 respectively.

His reaction was characteristic. Presenting a check for $1463, a ceremony at which a younger colleague have been known to turn handsprings, the old gentleman yawned and said, "Thank you very much; I think I'll turn in. I'm not as young as I was," and tottered off to his quarters.

Second place remained undecided, pending today's two-hole finish by George Von Elm and Willie Hunter of Los Angeles. Darkness overtook them yesterday at the seventh hole and they picked up Von Elm's note for a par-fours for a 287 and second place. Hunter needed four for a 288.

Pending their playoff, Mehlhorn was tentatively in second place with 288, Willie Goggin of San Francisco and John Revolta of Milwaukee tied with a 289.

Prize Money Held Up

Division of all prize money except Smith's was held up until second place was settled.

Smith's climatic last rounds were only slightly less surprising than the collapse of Dutra and Runyan. Both were nursing a four-point lead over their nearest professional competitor at the halfway post, with 138. They began slipping on the morning round when Dutra took a 73, three over par. Runyan a 74 but Dutra still led the pack at the three-quarter pole, by one stroke, with Runyan, Smith and Mehlhorn bunched a stroke behind. In the debacle that followed, the old professor didn't need a 63 to win, but he lost it from the force of 24 years' habit.

The golfing pack moves today to San Francisco for the annual San Francisco match play open, which begins Thursday.

The finishers:

280—MacDonald Smith, Nashville, Tenn.

288—Bill Mehlhorn, Louisville, Ky.

289—Willie Goggin, San Francisco; John Revolta, Milwaukee.

290—Willie Fox, Brooklyn; Paul Runyan, White Plains, N. Y.; Olin Dutra, Santa Monica.

293—Bobby Torrey, Kansas City.

294—Mortie Outland; Joe Kirkwood, Miami; Charles Seaver, Los Angeles.

295—Eddie Loe, Chicago; John Farrell, Lake Tahoe, Calif.

ME N ARRESTED RAILROAD MAN IN MILK STRIKE FOR S BANDIT ARE ARRAIGNED AT SAN ONO FRE

Alert for any emergency but satisfied that the crisis of the Southern California milk war has been passed, Orange county officers maintained a guard today on principal dairies but had withdrawn many of the special deputies sworn in over the week end to prevent outbreaks of rioting or striking.

While sheriff's officers acted as convoys on milk trucks in the western part of the county the four alleged "picketers" arrested by sheriff's officers were arraigned yesterday on charges of disturbing the peace. Lawrence Palmer, 31, Los Angeles, who was shot in the leg yesterday at the Raitt dairy on West Seventeenth street, and his companion, Andy Switzer, 35, were arraigned before Judge Charles Kuebel of Anaheim, had their preliminary hearings set for January 25 and had bail set at $500. They were originally charged with violation of the county picketing ordinance.

John Cosgrove, 28, and Ward Jamison, 23, Los Alamitos, were arraigned before Judge Fred Smith of Seal Beach for their preliminary hearing set for January 24 and had bail set at $1500. They were originally arrested on a charge of trespassing. None of the four men had posted bail at noon today. Hearing on a writ of habeas corpus, secured yesterday by J. Allan Frankel, attorney for the International Labor Defense, against Sheriff Logan Jackson and undersheriff C. W. Risley, will be heard tomorrow at 9:30 a. m. by Judge H. G. Ames.

Jackson appeared before the county supervisors this morning and explained what had transpired and what steps his office had taken to prevent striking. He said that the county could not afford to let the milk strikers gain a foothold because enticed with any success in that attempt, they might spread to the citrus industry and other trades. The supervisors assured him of their support.

Frankel said that milkers are striking here for $65 a month and board, with one day a week off. The now receive $50, he said, and have to work seven days a week. Most of them milk 30 cows, he said.

From Los Angeles came assurances from both the strikers and anti-strikers that the milk supply would not be cut off. Claiming the strike "a complete failure," the Milk Producers and Distributors committee declared "Milk is being distributed at the normal rate. Only a temporary agreement with the strikers."

Officials of the milk division of the Food Workers' Industrial Union, which called the strike, stated 32 dairies had signed permanent agreements which accede to the workers' demands, and that this insures an adequate milk supply in any event.

Only two dairies in Orange county, both at Los Alamitos, reported today that their milkers were still on strike. Six milkers have walked out at the McOmie ranch and six at the Thompson-Main ranch. The places of the striking milkers have been filled at both dairies.

Three New Senators Get Garner's Greetings

There were smiles all around as Vice President Garner welcomed to Washington three new United States Senators on the eve of the first regular session of Congress under the Roosevelt Administration. From left to right are Senators Ernest Gibson of Vermont, Joseph C. O'Mahoney of Wyoming, and Carl A. Hatch of New Mexico.

CONTRACT FOR BISHOP TELLS BAND LET BY NEED OF SENSE CITY COUNCIL OF TRUE VALUES

Resuming control of the Santa Ana Municipal band and reappointing Harry Hanson as manager, the city council last night agreed to a new contract following conferences and meetings with members of the band.

Under the new setup, Hanson will work with the council in selecting appearances of the band, hiring and firing of musicians and paying of salaries. Where the band is forced to take trips out of the city, extra remuneration will be arranged. The contract calls for an expenditure of $2300 for band expense, a decrease of $200 over last year.

Informed of his reappointment as manager, Hanson announced today that the new director of the band will be Leland Auer, assistant band instructor under Harold William Roberts at the University of Southern California.

Auer comes highly recommended and has conducted musical organizations in many cities. He is a member of the staff of the U. S. School of Music and is well-known in this country.

Auer has not been given a long-term contract, Hanson said, but will be given every opportunity to develop the band. He will lead the organization at the regular rehearsal tomorrow night and continue through the summer concerts.

At the afternoon session of the city council, a committee of six members from the band appeared and stated that 29 members of the band had voted to ask the appointment of Caesar Clanton, director of the band until last year, as new director. They asked that Joe Peterson be named manager and said that unless they were given a contract, it was probable that most of the band would resign. Lowell N. Wiley, Attorney Stock, S. W. Holt, Irvine German, Peterson and Pickrell.

At the evening session, Ted D. Collins, 525 South Sycamore street, offered a proposition to furnish a band of unemployed musicians at a cost of $750. No action was taken on his application.

In passing the motion for a new contract with Hanson, the council pointed out that there had always been harmonious relations with Hanson. He had proven an efficient manager of the band and they would continue to employ him in that capacity.

During the past year, the city held a contract giving full authority to Hanson to manage the band. All funds were paid to him and the council took no part in band activities.

Members of the executive committee of the Business Men's Committee of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce met this morning in the chamber offices in the courthouse annex to discuss formulation of a program of activities for merchants during the ensuing six months.

It is planned to set aside certain days of each month for "specified lines of business in the city and to work toward promotion of sales in the city, tending to make Santa Ana the shopping center of this district.

Another meeting of the executive committee will be held next Monday morning and at that time a time will be set for the second meeting of the general committee, which represents every line of business activity in the city.

SENATORS ARE THANKED FOR AID ON LOANS

In appreciation of the efforts which brought A. B. Mace, federal bank examiner, from Washington, D. C., to Orange county recently to make a personal investigation of farm loans, the city council yesterday authorized the sending of resolutions of thanks to Senators Hiram Johnson and William Gibbs McAdoo.

President Roosevelt sent the bank examiner to Santa Ana after Johnson and McAdoo had received telegrams and advice from Orange county that the California loans were apparently being held up. Mace conferred with Willard Ellis, head of the land bank in Berkeley, Holmes Bishop, farm bureau secretary, C. A. Palmer, federal land bank loan agent for Orange county, Harold Wahlberg, farm advisor, Mayor Paul Witmer and other officials.

Loans have increased considerably in recent weeks, it has been learned, and some ranchers are receiving as high as $750 loans per acre.

CHANGE SUPERVISOR OF 4-H CLUB WORK

W. G. Waterhouse, assistant state club leader in charge of 4-H clubs in the coast counties, will temporarily also be in charge of the counties from Los Angeles south, including Orange county, according to Eric E. Eastman, assistant farm advisor.

The change in assignment is due to the former supervisor of the southern district, W. R. Ralston, being placed in charge of the administration of the corn and hog program for the state; which, like all Agricultural Adjustment Act programs, is administered by the Agricultural Extension Service, as 4-H club work.

Waterhouse plans to attend the 4-H county club council meeting on February 5, as his first official visit in his new capacity.

Under the auspices of the California Municipal and County Motorcycle Officers' association, a benefit dance will be held January 25 at the Valencia ballroom. It was announced today by Robert King, special agent, of Los Angeles.

The dance is to be given to raise funds for paying premiums on $1000 life insurance policies carried in the association by city and county motorcycle officers. King said. Membership fees are used for expenses and the entire cost of the policies depend on public support at various benefits, King said.

King said the association has no connection with the California Highway Patrol or with the Orange County Peace Officers' association, and has been in existence for five years. King called on Phil Brown, manager of the Santa Ana Business Men's association here and explained the nature and operation of his organization.

Despite two attempts by an armed bandit to secure money from the station agent at the San Onofre station of the Santa Fe railroad, officials of the company reported that nothing was missing from the station or the home of the agent after a thrilling encounter about 8 o'clock last night.

The station agent was accosted in his home by a middle aged man brandishing a .35 caliber revolver, officers were told. Using a ruse, the agent slammed the door and locked the man inside the house but could not prevent him from running across the room, breaking a window and escaping by jumping in a car driven by two men.

Going at once to the station nearby, the agent found it had been ransacked and everything in disorder. It is believed that the men were seeking money and failing to find it at the station, came to the agent's home with the gun.

The bandit was described as wearing a light cap, blue overalls, blue jacket and rode a bicycle. He threw the bicycle on the small trailer attached to the car when he escaped. Although sheriff's officers were called, the investigation is being made from San Diego, since the station is a short distance over the county line.

With a twofold purpose in his walking tour of the world, that of explaining present day Russia to other countries, and taking ideas from other countries back to Russia, Jack Lavich, Russian born American citizen, spoke to a meeting last night at the First Presbyterian church sponsored by the Council of International Relations, and explained several phases of the Soviet regime from the standpoint of the Russian people.

Lavich, who has served on many governing committees and taught in several Russian universities, said that it is impossible for an American to get an accurate picture of Russia and her ideals because Russians are secretive with strangers, and any one not a native Russian is a stranger to them. He said that newspaper correspondents in Russia are fortunate if they are able to get 25 per cent of the picture and get it accurately.

The Soviet society, according to Lavich is not new but dates back to the fifth or sixth century when members of a community elected their elders, who in turn named district rulers, and they chose the leaders of the state. There were no classes or political parties, and this system has always been a part of the Russian tradition, he said.

Statements made by the speaker follow:

"Russia is now under the dictatorship of the communist party composed of about two and one-half million adults. The youth organizations bring in total membership to about 15,000,000."

"Elections are held for all officers by the method of mass meetings where the candidates speak and the people vote by raising their hands. All the elections are predetermined by the Communist leaders."

"Communist leaders explain that this method is necessary until their educational system begins to show results as now 80 per cent of the population is illiterate; their reason is that undoubtedly some of these untrained and uneducated persons would be placed in positions of great responsibility and cause the failure of their whole ideal."

The speaker said that while material conditions are much better now than they have been that they still need much improvement. In 1925 he found cases of three families living in one room with 14 or 15 children, and the mothers actually were not always sure which ones were their own. Conditions of housing still need improvement but they have been greatly remedied by the building of the American type of apartment houses. Lavich pointed out that this condition was brought about to a great extent by the fact that between 1914 and 1917 there were no houses built, but many were destroyed, and in the press of more important affairs the remedy was slow in being brought about.

Marriage and divorce are as easy as has been reported, Lavich said, but when there are children both parties must contribute to their support a specified percentage of their income which can easily be used up if a person is too often married.

There is no immorality in Russia, Lavich said, but on the contrary their great pride is in their youth who are more sober and serious than the older generation.

The Communist party is pinning its hopes on the younger generation and is concentrating its efforts on educating them to the ideas set up by Lenin, he asserted.

The government keeps its finger on the affairs day by day and Moscow is probably the most completely informed capital in the world in regard to the remote parts of its country, the speaker said.

At the evening session, Ted D. Collins, 524 South Sycamore street, offered a proposition to furnish a band of unemployed musicians at a cost of $750. No action was taken on his application.

In passing the motion for a new contract with Hanson, the council pointed out that there had always been harmonious relations with Hanson, he had proven an efficient manager of the band and they would continue to employ him in that capacity.

During the past year, the city held a contract giving full authority to Hanson to manage the band. All funds were paid to him and the council took no part in band activities.

Members of the executive committee of the Business Men's Committee of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce met this morning in the chamber offices in the courthouse annex to discuss formulation of a program of activities for merchants during the ensuing six months.

It is planned to set aside certain days of each month for "specified lines of business in the city and to work toward promotion of sales in the city, tending to make Santa Ana the shopping center of the district."

Another meeting of the executive committee will be held next Monday morning and at that time a time will be set for the second meeting of the general committee, which represents every line of business activity in the city.

Speaking last night at the second meeting of the Week of Prayer services being conducted at the First Methodist church, the speaker, Bishop Ira D. Warner, of Portland, Ore. as his subject "Babel or Bethel."

Urging recovery of a sense of true values, to exalt man above the machine and to learn anew that the enduring produce of a civilization can only be written in terms of soul, not steel, of character, not in all the myriad wonders of a technical age, he said in part:

"Come, let us build a city and a tower that shall pierce the heavens and make a name for ourselves."

"Such was the appeal of enthusiastic materialists in a far-off day. The result was the building of the Tower of Babel—a tower that seemed to pierce the heavens, the pride and joy of all who beheld it. But the ultimate issue was the confusion of tongues, the confounding of civilization."

"It is the old, old story of the pride which precedeth a fall—the pride of self-sufficiency and self-confidence, so characteristic of our humanity. I thought of it as I stood in the midst of those garish, modernistic buildings which house the exposition celebrating a 'century of progress.' They symbolize something about which we were very assertive and cocksure a few years ago—that progress was inevitable and that man, by means of his own inventive skill, was fast becoming his own savior."

"We are engaged in celebrating the glories of our mechanical age, but even in the moment of celebration nothing is more apparent than the fact that the machine cannot save us. In the social chaos and moral bankruptcy of the hour one senses the need of some power which the century of progress seems to have forgotten. We may build our tower of Babel to pierce the clouds, but we can never of our own strength build it high enough."

"Now may I suggest that if we are going to recover something of the mental balance and the moral sanity which is so desperately needed in our world today we must have the ministry of the leader that God establishes—the ladder of worship, of reverence, communion and fellowship rather than that of the tower of our own buildings. We need to make a new appraisal of values, to achieve that power of spiritual discernment which will help us to know that the enduring things are not the things of steel, of stone, of whirling motors and of electric wizardry. We need to recover the wisdom of Him who long ago declared that the supreme values in the world are human values and whose imperative interrogation to His own materialistically-minded day is just as pertinent in our own: 'What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul, or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?'"

"Well, what shall it profit us if we multiply our machines and minimize spiritual values, with such greed for gain that we stimulate the production of necessities to the point of saturation and allow multitudes to starve to death in a land of plenty? What shall it profit us if we multiply our mechanical devices until the number of them threatens to engulf our world in economic chaos and the power which is potential in them menaces the very security of the nation and the peace of the world?"

Yes, we've got to recover a sense of true values, to exalt man above the machine and to learn anew that the enduring produce of a civilization can only be written in terms of soul not steel, of character, not in all the myriad wonders of a technological age. And the values which our age so sadly needs, and whose demand is so evident in all of the desperate situation in which we find ourselves, the recovery of that sense of values comes by way of Bethel, not Babel."

FRANTZ ELECTED CALAVO DIRECTOR

Ray F. Frantz, of La Habra, was re-elected a director of district No. 5, Calavo Growers of California, at a meeting held at the Washington school in La Habra last night, with H. C. Smith, of La Habra Heights, named alternate director.

George Hodgkin, secretary and general manager of the Calavo Growers' organization, reviewed conditions of the past year and outlined plans for 1934. The central office has installed grading and stamping machines which enables the organization to more than double the number of boxes handled in a day. Formerly the output per eight-hour day was 400 to 500 boxes, but hereafter the Calavo plant will be able to handle between 800 and 1000 boxes per day, he reported. Hodgkin stated that the national advertising appropriation had been cut as a matter of economy.

Charles Lewis, of North Whittier Heights, a vice president of Calavo Growers, reported that cooperation of sheriff's offices had reduced the growers' theft losses.

Two checks were stolen from the checkbook of the manager and two have already been cashed, one at the Jacobs Pharmacy, 101 N. Main street and one at the J. C. Penney store. The checks were numbered in a series from 1892 to 1903.

SENATORS ARE THANKED FOR AID ON LOANS

In appreciation of the efforts which brought A. B. Mac, federal bank examiner, from Washington, D. C., to Orange county recently to make a personal investigation of farm loans, the city council yesterday authorized the sending of resolutions of thanks to Senators Elmer Johnson and William Gibbs McAdoo.

President Roosevelt sent the bank examiner to Santa Ana after Johnson and McAdoo had received telegrams and advices from Orange county that the California loans were apparently being held up. Mac conferred with Willard Ellis, head of the land bank in Berkeley, Holmes Bishop, farm bureau secretary, C. A. Palmer, federal land bank loan agent for Orange county, Harold Wahlberg, farm advisor, Mayor Paul Witmer and other officials.

Loans have increased considerably in recent weeks, it has been learned, and some ranchers are receiving as high as $750 loans per acre.

CHANGE SUPERVISOR OF 4-H CLUB WORK

W. G. Waterhouse, assistant state club leader in charge of 4-H clubs in the coast counties, will temporarily also be in charge of the counties from Los Angeles south, including Orange county, according to Eric E. Eastman, assistant farm advisor.

The change in assignment is due to the former supervisor of the southern district, W. R. Ralston, being placed in charge of the administration of the corn and hog program for the state; while, like all Agricultural Adjustment Act programs, is administered by the Agricultural Extension Service, as is 4-H club work.

Waterhouse plans to attend the 4-H county club council meeting on February 5, as his first official visit in his new capacity.

County To Use 315 Men In CWA Check On State Traffic

Orange county will participate in a state wide traffic check, to be staged by the Civil Works Administration workers on January 13, 14 and 15, according to instructions received here today from Edward Macaulay, state director for the CWA.

A total of 315 men will be taken from their regular project jobs and assigned to roads throughout the county and to busy street intersections in the various towns. These men, after completing this service will be returned to their jobs.

The check is to be made with the present CWA quota, no new men being added, according to instructions received. The local CWA headquarters announced however, that the men to be used will be taken from the old RPO projects and not from the new CWA constructive projects.

EARTHQUAKE WAKENS MANY IN S. A. TODAY

Many residents of Santa Ana were awakened at 6:12 o'clock this morning by a rolling tremor, the first earthquake of appreciable effect for several months felt in Santa Ana.

No damage was caused by the slight quake, although several persons telephoned The Register to learn if any damage had occurred. Sound sleepers did not notice the shock.

RIVERSIDE, Cal., Jan. 9.—(UP)—A sharp earth shock was felt here at 6:12 a. m. today. The quake was sufficiently strong to rattle windows and awake sleepers. No damage was reported in an early survey. It was believed the quake centered along the San Jacinto fault.

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., Jan. 9.—The entire San Bernardino valley was shaken early today by the sharpest earthquake since the disastrous temblor of last March 10. No damage or injury was reported immediately.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 9.—(UP)—A slight earthquake was felt in the eastern residential district of Los Angeles at 6:12 a. m. today but it was not of sufficient intensity to awaken sleepers. The shock was not felt at Long Beach.

Benefit Dance For Insurance Fund of Officers Planned

Under the auspices of the California Municipal and County Motorcycle Officers' association, a benefit dance will be held January 25 at the Valencia ballroom. It was announced today by Robert King, special agent, of Los Angeles.

The dance is to be given to raise funds for paying premiums on $1000 life insurance policies carried in the association by city and county motorcycle officers. King said. Membership fees are used for expenses and the entire cost of the policies depend on public support at various benefits, King said.

King said the association has no connection with the California Highway Patrol or with the Orange County Peace Officers' association, and has been in existence for five years. King called on Phil Brown, manager of the Santa Ana Business Men's association here and explained the nature and operation of his organization.

C. E. Skiles, assistant manager of the Orange County Fruit Exchange for the past four years, was elected secretary and manager of the Exchange at a meeting of the board of directors held at the office of the organization in Orange, yesterday. Skiles succeeds C. C. Hillis who was elected secretary and manager at the time Skiles became assistant manager and who recently resigned his office.

Skiles became affiliated with the Exchange in 1929 in the capacity of bookkeeper, the position being his first in the business world. He was graduated from the Orange Union high school and received his business training in that institution. The new secretary and manager worked under L. D. Palmer, exchange manager for many years, who passed away in February, 1933.

Willard Smith, president, was in the chair at yesterday's session and routine business was transacted in addition to the election of Skiles to his new post.

POLICE SUSPECT CHILDREN OF THEFT

The intruder first took off a window screen but could not open the window, police reported. A screen was then opened on a door, the glass broken and the door unlocked from the inside. The house was ransacked and a pewter cake plate, pewter fruit bowl and hand carved cigar box reported missing.

The burglar left by the front door and police believe the thieves may have been committed by children.

RETAIL STORES HEAD PREDICTS BETTER TIMES

Visualizing 1934 as a year of increased business activity in which the already upward trend would reach its fulfillment through the cooperative efforts of government and business, Lew Hahn, speaking as president of the National Retail Dry Goods Association of 450 department and specialty stores in the United States and for the retailing trade in general as chairman pro tem of the National Retail Code Authority, was quoted in an article in a news service sent out by the dry goods association, received today by H. P. Rankin, of Rankin's dry goods store.

Hahn saw beneficial reactions in industry a sure result of increased holiday sales, looked with favor on the government's major recovery projects, and expressed the opinion that uneasiness over President Roosevelt's money policies was uncalled for.

While unwilling to anticipate what congress might do in handling currency problems, he advising business not to hesitate on this account, but to "go out for the big opportunity to push sales volume back somewhere near what it must be to make net profit."

Hahn declared that the change business has been waiting for throughout the depression is now definitely at hand. The NRA program has contributed definitely to the growth of confidence of the general public, he said, in predicting that 1934 will witness a considerable increase in business activity.

SCHOOL ACTIVITIES AND REPAIR FUNDS TOPICS FOR P.-T. A.

Extra-curricular activities of the Santa Ana high school and junior college will be the subject discussed at a meeting of the High School-Junior College P.-T. A. Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock in the Y. W. C. A. hut, it was announced today.

Three speakers representing various high school clubs will be presented: Roberta Tuthill for the Girls' League, Bernice Miles for the language clubs and Paul Hales for the service clubs.

Mrs. Neal Beisel, president of the association, announced today that competent speakers including Principal D. K. Hammond, will discuss the matter of rehabilitating Santa Ana schools. Any parent interested in the matter can discuss the subject or ask questions of speakers, she said.

Various musical organizations will be represented in a musical program. Numbers will be presented by the high school girls' glee club, the high school boys' glee club, a solo by Rutherford Williams, selections by the high school girls' glee club and the junior college women's octet.

Parents of students in the schools were urged to attend the meeting.

PAYROLLS AND STORE SALES REFLECT GAINS

This is the sixth of eleven articles in "America Under the Blue Eagle," series written exclusively for The Register and other NRA Service newspapers, after a 5000-mile journey of survey to the nation's principal centers of population, showing the situation after six months' operation of the recovery program.

By JOHN PIPER
Special Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 9.—The "Blue Eagle" is flying high over the states of the Pacific coast. Industrialists, labor leaders, and the consumer public have accepted his visitation with open arms.

He is here to stay; no doubt about that. Strong individualists who had hoped that the time would come when they might take a pot shot and bring him down gradually are lining up to pay him homage.

Conflicts there are, but they are being ironed out rapidly. Opposition there is, but it is waning. Here and there you hear a banker of the old school grunt disapproval of what he terms governmental interference. Instances have developed where large employers of labor have sought to behave under the ancient laws of rugged individualism—the only rules of business conduct they ever learned.

But they are beginning to see the light. Their associates, their own trade organization, their Chambers of Commerce, are teaching them that a new regime has stepped in and repealed the "dog eat dog" philosophy of doing business.

Thousands Get Work
Statistics tell the story of NRA's success in the Pacific coast states. Men put back to work, payrolls increasing, store sales advancing, bank debits gaining, are facts which cannot be denied.

Just how much of the improvement is due to NRA it is impossible to determine, but it is significant that almost everyone concerned is willing to give the "Blue Eagle" the credit.

George Creel, dynamic chairman of the National Labor Board on the coast, estimates that the NRA has put 1,000,000 men and women back to work in this region.

His figure is higher than some other estimates, and may be too optimistic, but Creel bases his data on reports from county compliance boards all over his district.

E. Tilden Mattox, district compliance director of the NRA here, said 300,000 had been re-employed under the codes in California, Nevada and Utah alone.

Add Millions to Payroll
Mattox declared payrolls in northern California and Nevada alone have jumped $17,200,000 monthly over the figures of last summer.

The same optimistic story comes from other leaders in the NRA movement on the coast. Frank Messenger, district compliance manager at Portland, said 52,000 persons have been given employment in Oregon. Furniture manufacturing, canning, lumbering and retail business have been primarily affected.

The NRA compliance representative in Idaho reported that 10,000 jobless have found work in that state because of NRA activity.

Messenger described the building up of confidence through the NRA and the Civic Works Administration program as one of the most healthy phases of the entire situation.

"With both individuals working on salaries and firms operating for profit," he added, "the knowledge of a certain job or command for a given output has resulted in things moving forward. The benefits are clearly visible and their effect will increase markedly during the next six weeks."

Complaints Soon Settled
Mattox was more than optimistic about the success of the NRA.

HERE'S FAMOUS GOLDEN GATE CITY

A million men put back to work... that's George Creel's estimate of what NRA has done for the Pacific coast region. . . . San Francisco and its famous Golden Gate is pictured here.

on the coast. His organization functions smoothly. There are 45 county chairmen in northern California responsible to him.

So successful have they been in settling complaints from all sides that less than 5 per cent ever come to the attention of the district compliance director. And only seven cases of the thousands which developed have gone to the national compliance division in Washington for final settlement.

NRA officials here have more difficulty with the cleaning and dyeing industry than with any other. Possibly this is due to the fact that outside of the oil industry, it is the only business which has adopted price fixing in its code.

The public definitely is opposed to price fixing. More criticism is heard of the NRA because of the fixed price established by the cleaners and dyers than of any other feature in the administration of the law here.

Price Cutting Attacked
Before the code was signed, "cut rate" cleaning and dyeing plants charged 49 cents for cleaning and pressing a suit. The code set the figure at $1, and this had to be reduced later.

Complaint after complaint came to the compliance office of cleaners who had cut prices in defiance of the code. The case of one flagrant violator has been sent to Washington, with the recommendation that he be dispossessed of his "Blue Eagle."

California's experience with price fixing may prove valuable to NRA administrators in Washington. When the national recovery act was passed, the state legislature was in session, so it adopted a little NRA of its own. The CRA (California Recovery Act), as it was called, worked out several codes with price fixing features.

One of these, the barbers' code brought wholesale criticism. The code fixed the haircut price at 65 cents, the highest ever. Barbers in outlying sections and small towns were compelled to charge the same amount for a haircut as the man in the palatial city hotel shop.

CRA is Fading Out
The public didn't like it. The business man whose income had been reduced by 50 per cent since 1929 objected to paying pre-depression prices to his barber.

Then the barbers themselves became dissatisfied with the price fixing feature. Less than a month after its adoption, the code was changed to eliminate this objectionable clause. Now it appears as if the CRA soon will be discontinued.

Industrial conflicts have been relatively rare on the coast, but where they have occurred, Creel has stepped in to bring order out of chaos.

Through efforts of his office, working under direction of the National Labor Board in Washington, 38,000 men either have been kept at work through prevention of strikes, or returned to work on their settlement.

Creel has settled six major disputes involving 20,000 men and has averted eight other strikes involving 17,400 men. His toughest assignment was the strike of 10,000 cotton pickers in central California, where men had been killed in rioting in connection with this strike.

Sees Higher Standards

Creel describes the NRA as a revolution of our whole industrial structure along co-operative lines which will bring a higher standard of living to all.

Figures of the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco bear out the claims of Creel and Mattox of tremendous increases in employment and payrolls on the Pacific coast. The latest report released by the bank claimed that in October employment in California was 2 per cent greater than in October last year.

Total payrolls were 15 per cent larger. In Oregon both number of employees and total weekly wages were 40 per cent higher than in October, 1932.

Bank debits for leading cities in Arizona, California, Idaho, Nevada, Oregon, Utah and Washington totaled $1,900,649,000 in October, compared to $1,819,783,000 in the same months of 1932.

In November the 14 leading cities in California alone reported an increase of 4.7 per cent in bank debits.

Trade Gains Slowly

Retail trade has been slower to pick up than the figures for employment and payrolls would indicate that it would. Department store sales in the Twelfth Federal Reserve district in November were only 3.2 per cent greater than in the corresponding month of last year.

San Francisco reported a gain of 3.8 per cent, but Oakland, Portland and Seattle all recorded losses.

"Smaller communities, however, showed wide gains, stores in medium-sized cities in Washington reporting increase of 23.6 per cent in sales for November. Utah and southern Idaho, typically rural states, reported a gain of 22.8 per cent.

Bank deposits of Federal Reserve member banks in selected cities of the Twelfth district increased from $1,416,000,000 in June to $1,453,000,000 Dec. 13.

Reserve account of member banks with the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco jumped from $144,358,000 in June to $179,358,000 Dec. 13.

MAN WANTED HERE CAUGHT IN FLORIDA

Sought since August, 1932, when he jumped a bail bond in Orange county, Howard D. Mitchell, 42, has finally been taken in custody in St. Petersburg, Florida. Sheriff Logan Jackson was advised yesterday.

A fugitive warrant was immediately telegraphed by Jackson and bail fixed at $25,000. Arrangements will be started to bring Mitchell to trial at once, Jackson said.

Mitchell jumped a $3000 bail bond here in 1932 on charges of grand theft and violation of the corporate securities act, after a complaint was sworn out by William Smith of Santa Ana for the loss of $3000. It was understood that Mitchell secured nearly $30,000 from doctors and morticians of the county on worthless stock deals.

Mitchell was arrested by Chicago police several months ago and placed under $500 bail pending the arrival of Deputy Sheriff Merle Dean. Mitchell posted the bond and never came back, although Dean traced him from Chicago to Oklahoma City.

The NRA compliance representative in Idaho reported that 10,000 jobless have found work in that state because of NRA activity.

Messenger described the building up of confidence through the NRA and the Civic Works Administration program as one of the most healthy phases of the entire situation.

"With both individuals working on salaries and firms operating for profit," he added, "the knowledge of a certain job or command for a given output has resulted in things moving forward. The benefits are clearly visible and their effect will increase markedly during the next six weeks."

Complaints Soon Settled
Mattox was more than optimistic about the success of the NRA.

HERE'S FAMOUS GOLDEN GATE CITY

A million men put back to work... that's George Creel's estimate of what NRA has done for the Pacific coast region. . . . San Francisco and its famous Golden Gate is pictured here.

on the coast. His organization functions smoothly. There are 45 county chairmen in northern California responsible to him.

So successful have they been in settling complaints from all sides that less than 5 per cent ever come to the attention of the district compliance director. And only seven cases of the thousands which developed have gone to the national compliance division in Washington for final settlement.

NRA officials here have more difficulty with the cleaning and dyeing industry than with any other. Possibly this is due to the fact that outside of the oil industry, it is the only business which has adopted price fixing in its code.

The public definitely is opposed to price fixing. More criticism is heard of the NRA because of the fixed price established by the cleaners and dyers than of any other feature in the administration of the law here.

Price Cutting Attacked
Before the code was signed, "cut rate" cleaning and dyeing plants charged 49 cents for cleaning and pressing a suit. The code set the figure at $1, and this had to be reduced later.

Complaint after complaint came to the compliance office of cleaners who had cut prices in defiance of the code. The case of one flagrant violator has been sent to Washington, with the recommendation that he be dispossessed of his "Blue Eagle."

California's experience with price fixing may prove valuable to NRA administrators in Washington. When the national recovery act was passed, the state legislature was in session, so it adopted a little NRA of its own. The CRA (California Recovery Act), as it was called, worked out several codes with price fixing features.

One of these, the barbers' code brought wholesale criticism. The code fixed the haircut price at 65 cents, the highest ever. Barbers in outlying sections and small towns were compelled to charge the same amount for a haircut as the man in the palatial city hotel shop.

CRA is Fading Out
The public didn't like it. The business man whose income had been reduced by 50 per cent since 1929 objected to paying pre-depression prices to his barber.

Then the barbers themselves became dissatisfied with the price fixing feature. Less than a month after its adoption, the code was changed to eliminate this objectionable clause. Now it appears as if the CRA soon will be discontinued.

Industrial conflicts have been relatively rare on the coast, but where they have occurred, Creel has stepped in to bring order out of chaos.

Through efforts of his office, working under direction of the National Labor Board in Washington, 28,000 men either have been kept at work through prevention of strikes, or returned to work on their settlement.

Creel has settled six major disputes involving 20,600 men and has averted eight other strikes involving 17,400 men. His toughest assignment was the strike of 10,000 cotton pickers in central California, where men had been killed in rioting in connection with this strike.

Sees Higher Standards

Creel describes the NRA as a revolution of our whole industrial structure along co-operative lines which will bring a higher standard of living to all.

Figures of the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco bear out the claims of Creel and Mattox of tremendous increases in employment and payrolls on the Pacific coast. The latest report released by the bank claimed that in October employment in California was 2 per cent greater than in October, last year.

Total payrolls were 15 per cent larger. In Oregon both number of employees and total weekly wages were 40 per cent higher than in October, 1932.

Bank debits for leading cities in Arizona, California, Idaho, Nevada, Oregon, Utah and Washington totaled $1,900,649,000 in October, compared to $1,819,753,000 in the same months of 1932.

In November the 14 leading cities in California alone reported an increase of 4.3 per cent in bank debits.

Trade Gains Slowly

Retail trade has been slower to pick up than the figures for employment and payrolls would indicate that it would. Department store sales in the Twelfth Federal Reserve district in November were only 3.2 per cent greater than in the corresponding month of last year.

San Francisco reported a gain of 9.8 per cent, but Oakland, Portland and Seattle all recorded losses.

"Smaller communities, however, showed wide gains, stores in medium-sized cities in Washington reporting increase of 12.6 per cent in sales for November. Utah and southern Idaho, typically rural states, reported a gain of 22.8 per cent.

Bank deposits of Federal Reserve member banks in selected cities of the Twelfth district increased from $1,416,000,000 in June to $1,453,000,000 Dec. 13.

Reserve account of member banks with the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco jumped from $144,338,000 in June to $179,338,000 Dec. 13.

MAN WANTED HERE CAUGHT IN FLORIDA

Sought since August, 1932, when he jumped a bail bond in Orange county, Howard D. Mitchell, 42, has finally been taken in custody in St. Petersburg, Florida. Sheriff Logan Jackson was advised yesterday.

A fugitive warrant was immediately telegraphed by Jackson and bail fixed at $25,000. Arrangements will be started to bring Mitchell to trial at once, Jackson said.

Mitchell jumped a $3000 bail bond here in 1932 on charges of grand theft and violation of the corporate securities act, after a complaint was sworn out by William Smith of Santa Ana for the loss of $3000. It was understood that Mitchell secured nearly $30,000 from doctors and morticians of the county on worthless stock deals.

Mitchell was arrested by Chicago police several months ago and placed under $500 bail pending the arrival of Deputy Sheriff Merle Dean. Mitchell posted the bond and never came back, although Dean traced him from Chicago to Oklahoma City.

U. S. ENGINEER SAYS MOST WATER IN UPPER RIVER SPREAD DURING LAST STORM

A total of 110 second feet of storm water was diverted for spreading purposes for a day and a half during the peak flow during the recent storm in the upper Santa Ana river, according to a statement made today by D. C. Muckel, field engineer for the United States Bureau of Agricultural Engineering, stationed at Pomona, who measures the spreading and absorption.

Muckel said the amount of water recently authorized the spreading for spread in tributaries to the Santa Ana river during the storm period, including Lytle creek, Cucamonga creek and San Antonio, has been measured but the figures have not yet been compiled. The amount spread in the upper Santa Ana river, he estimated, would amount to several hundred acre feet during the time water was diverted for spreading.

Most of the water in the tributaries to the Santa Ana river was diverted for spreading operations during the storm, the engineers declared, indicating that little, if any, water was released to come down the Santa Ana river to Orange county.

An estimated total of 2000 acre feet of water flowed into the ocean through the Santa Ana river channel during the recent flood, according to United States engineers, but nearly all of the water came from this side of Riverside Narrows, most of it from Chino creek and from the flat area this side of San Bernardino county, they reported.

Muckel announced that four instruments will be installed in the Santa Ana river channel in Orange county, beginning today, to measure the amount of water spread. Married Flirts

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Gypsy Morell and Tom Weaver are married the same day as Lila and Derek Bliss. Lila expects to live in luxury, but Gypsy intends to keep her job, teaching in a settlement house.

The first night Gypsy and Tom spend in their New York apartment, Vera Gray, 35, of 33rd street, calls on them. Lila expects to lunch on to meet Gypsy, but Gypsy can't get away from work to go. After a hard day at school she rushes home to learn that Vera is coming to call on them. Vera arrives and the two girls dislike each other on sight. Tom seems relieved when Vera leaves.

Weeks later Lila and Derek return from their honeymoon in Europe. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER V

It was Lila's voice on the telephone, sweet, slightly breathless, as always. "Is that you, Gypsy? We got back last week. I'm dying to see you."

Of course, Gypsy didn't take this literally. Lila was given to exaggeration.

"Do come for dinner next week," Lila urged. "How about Tuesday? Is Tuesday free?"

Gypsy, smiling to herself, said that Tuesday would be fine. Lila's air of supposing that Tom and she had a full calendar of engagements amused her. This was Saturday afternoon. Gypsy was glad she'd been at home when Lila called. Dinner at the Bliss's on Tuesday gave her something gay to look forward to. What with watching the bug-t, and seeing that the bills were paid, the young Weavers had little to spend on amusement.

Then she began to worry about her dress. She didn't want to look like a bride—that was fatal—but the ivory dress she had worn on her wedding day was the only really formal frock she owned. She took it out, stared at it critically, and decided that, without sleeves, it would do very nicely. She had made it so that the back might easily be cut down to a V, while the front was fashionably high, after that season's mode. Yes, with her last year's red slippers, it would do!

But when she routed out those slippers, they proved sadly disappointing. The last time she had danced in them, an irremediable grease stain had appeared from nowhere on the toe of the left one. Gypsy struggled, with cleaning fluid and chalk, to remove this. But all her efforts only made the spot more stubborn.

"They look awful!" She was ready to weep. It would be the grossest extravagance, she thought, to buy a new pair for Lila's dinner party. Tom, dashing in just then, whistling gayly, found her on the floor of the bedroom, bottles, slippers and rags strewn about, her face weebegone.

"What's up?"

Gypsy sat back on her heels, pushing back her little mop.

"Just these awful shoes."

"What's the matter with 'em, honey?"

She held out the offending object.

"This one's a mess. I simply can't wear it."

"Well, what's all the excitement? I didn't know we were going places."

"Lila's home. We're invited to dinner."

"Oh, that. Gosh!"

"You don't want to go?"

"I grinned at her. "Of course, I do. Tell you what, we'll go now and buy you a new pair."

She said accusingly: "Thomas Weaver, you know rent day comes next week. And your insurance."

He snapped his fingers. "Right you are. Well, what about those ivory dinges you wore with the dress?"

She struck at her forehead. "What a fool I am! I'd can forget my wedding shoes. I can have them dyed."

She would have them dyed green, brilliant green, and wear the little string of jade-colored beads Father had given her on her last birthday.

Tom watched her, smoking idly, as she rummaged through box and drawer, in search of the ivory slippers. She was conscious of his unwelcome silence, and turned to look at him, surprising him with a troubled expression in his eyes.

"What's the matter, darling?"

He squinted through the smoke. "Nothing—only I wish I could give you things. You weren't very bright to marry a poor man, Gypsy. You ought to have luxuries. You're so pretty and so young."

"Will you stop harping on that?"

He was serious, he said. It made him feel ashamed. A pair of scuffed and shabby dancing shoes, he considered that!

"Well, he did, anyhow," Tom tramped about the room now, seeming too big for the place. His shoulders were so broad, his legs clever fingers could transform scuffed and soiled dancing shoes into the semblance of new ones. Thank goodness her little black velvet wrap with the white fur ("cat" the twins called it) still looked nice!

She sang in the tub. It was exciting, going to a party. It was fun. She sat wrapped in her blue negligee, as Tom's key grated in the lock.

"I'm running the tub for you, darling!" She stuck the shoes out of sight, under a chair. Better not put them on until the last minute. She just wouldn't think about them until she had to.

He came down the hall and leaned against the doorframe, regarding her, "Gosh, you look pretty!"

The mirror gave back the reflection of a curly-haired girl with wide, soft, eager eyes. Tom came to her and kissed her swiftly.

"Let me see those shoes."

She hunted them out and gave them into his hands. He turned them over curiously.

"Too bad you have to wear them."

Gypsy shrugged. She was a good actress. "Oh, I don't mind. Honestly."

Marko had said, long ago, she remembered: you'd be sorry if you marry a poor man. You like luxury. Well, she'd show him.

Tom was looking at her in a curiously baffling way. "You don't have to, darling," he told her. He was holding something out to her. A box wrapped in green paper. Gypsy unwrapped it. Little gift sandals lay within. Her size. "Tom, you shouldn't have..."

There was the insurance. There was the rent. There were these insane, lovely little shoes with the maker's name, an expensive one stamped inside.

"You're not going to wear shabby shoes," said Tom, "as long as I can get the other kind for you." She knew he was thinking of Marko.

Christian Science

"O Lord of hosts, God of Israel, that dwellest between the cherubims, thou art the God, even thou alone, of all the kingdoms of the earth; thou has made heaven and earth." These words of Isaiah were the Golden Text in the lesson sermon on "God" at the Santa Ana First Church of Christ, Scientist, Sunday.

One of the Bible selections in the lesson sermon included Paul's words to the Romans: "And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are the called according to his purpose. . . . For I am persuaded, that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord."

U. S. ENGINEER SAYS MOST WATER IN UPPER RIVER SPREAD DURING LAST STORM

A total of 110 second feet of storm water was diverted for spreading purposes for a day and a half during the peak flow during the recent storm in the upper Santa Ana river, according to a statement made today by D. C. Muckel, field engineer for the United States Bureau of Agricultural Engineering, stationed at Pomona, who measures the spreading and absorption.

Muckel said the amount of water presently authorized the spreading for spread in tributaries to the Santa Ana river during the storm period, including Lytle creek, Cucamonga creek and San Antonio, has not yet been compiled. The amount spread in the upper Santa Ana river, he estimated, would amount to several hundred acre feet during the time water was diverted for spreading.

Most of the water in the tributaries to the Santa Ana river was diverted for spreading operations during the storm, the engineers declared, indicating that little, if any, water was released to come down the Santa Ana river to Orange county.

An estimated total of 2000 acre feet of water flowed into the ocean through the Santa Ana river channel during the recent flood, according to United States engineers, but nearly all of the water came from this side of Riverside Narrows, most of it from Chino creek and from the flat area this side of San Bernardino county, they reported.

Muckel announced that four instruments will be installed in the Santa Ana river channel in Orange county, beginning today, to measure the amount of water spread. The board of directors of the Orange County Water district.

"Too bad you have to wear them," Gypsy shrugged. She was a good actress. "Oh, I don't mind. Honestly."

Marko had said, long ago, she remembered: you'll be sorry if you marry a poor man. You like luxury. Well, she'd show him.

Tom was looking at her in a curiously bantering way. "You don't have to, darling," he told her. He was holding something out to her. A box wrapped in green paper. Gypsy unwrapped it. Little gilt sandals lay within. Her size.

"Tom, you shouldn't have..." There was the insurance. There was the rent. There were these insane, lovely little shoes with the maker's name, an expensive one stamped inside.

"You're not going to wear shabby shoes," said Tom, "as long as I can get the other kind for you." She knew he was thinking of Marko.

Gypsy said, stubbornly, that she'd wear the red ones. She did not add what she thought in her heart, they looked so pretty and Lila would be sure to notice. She put on a cheerful face and went out to get a . . . But the thought nagged her, as she boiled and skinned shrimps for salad and cut up handfuls of crisp white celery, and mixed mayonnaise. This time last year she would have rushed out quite carelessly, to buy new sandals. She had spent a great deal of her salary on her young and pretty person. But now—well, it was not fair to Tom. And there were so many things they needed for the house. No, the red slippers would just have to do. And if Marko were there—well, it couldn't be helped, that was all.

Just the same, when she rushed home from work Tuesday evening to bathe and dress her hair rather than the one she stared at the slippers. Her dress was all right. She had worked on it all night. It looked quite in the mode. Trust Gypsy for that. But not even her

Discussion of plans for a grand opening of the new reconstructed Santa Ana American Legion hall will feature a meeting of Santa Ana American Legion Post No. 131 next Thursday night at 8 o'clock in Getty Hall, 619 East Fourth street, it was announced today by Adjutant Art Eklund.

Franklin Grouard, chairman of the Legion building committee, will discuss the possibility of holding a celebration, perhaps in the form of a big opening dance, on the night of March 10, the first anniversary of the earthquake which ruined the building.

Boys from Camp Trabuco, Civilian Conservation corps, will furnish the program for the evening. They will bring their own orchestra for the occasion.

Refreshments will be served at the conclusion of the business and entertainment.

STATE OFFICER WILL ADDRESS DISABLED VETS

C. Bert Allen, state adjutant of the department of California, will be the featured speaker at a meeting of Jack Fisher chapter No. 23, Disabled American Veterans of the World War, tomorrow night in the K. of C. hall, it was announced today by Commander Harry S. Pickard.

The address will be given in addition to a program of music, which will be followed by the serving of refreshments. State Adjutant Allen is a speaker of force and ability, according to the announcement, and has a special message at this time for all veterans.

Long Beach Chapter No. 17 will be guest of the evening and will be present to collect the winner's share of last year's membership contest which it won by a small margin. The previous year Santa Ana won and enjoyed the hospitality of Long Beach chapter.

Commander Pickard pointed out that the meeting place has been changed from Getty's hall to the K. of C. hall because of the large attendance expected.

Married Flirts

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Gypsy Morell and Tom Weaver are married the same day as Lila Hot-phen, sweet, slightly fretful, as always. "Is that you, Gypsy? We got back last week. I'm dying to see you."

Of course, Gypsy didn't take this literally. Lila was given to exaggeration. "Do come for dinner next week," Lila urged. "How about Tuesday?"

CHAPTER V
It was Lila's voice on the telephone, sweet, slightly fretful, as always. "Is that you, Gypsy? We got back last week. I'm dying to see you."

Of course, Gypsy didn't take this literally. Lila was given to exaggeration. "Do come for dinner next week," Lila urged. "How about Tuesday?"

Gypsy, smiling to herself, said that Tuesday would be fine. Lila's air of supposing that Tom and she had a full calendar of engagements amused her. This was Saturday afternoon. Gypsy was glad she'd been at home when Lila called. Dinner at the Bliss' on Tuesday gave her something gay to look forward to. With all the watching the budget, and seeing that the bills were paid, the young Weavers had little to spend on amusement.

Then she began to worry about her dress. She didn't want to look "bridey"—that was fatal, but the ivory dress she had worn on her wedding day was the only really formal frock she owned. She took it out, stared at it critically, and decided that, without sleeves, it would do very nicely. She had made it so that the back might easily be cut down to a V, while the front was fashionably high, after that season's mode. Yes, with her year's red slippers, it would do!

But when she routed out those slippers, they proved sadly disappointing. The last time she had danced in them, an irredeemable grease stain had appeared from nowhere on the toe of the left one. Gypsy struggled, with cleaning fluid and chalk, to remove that. But all her efforts only made the spot more stubborn.

"They look awful!" She was ready to weep. It would be the grossest extravagance, she thought, to buy a new pair for Lila's dinner party. Tom, dashing in just then, whistling gayly, found her on the floor of the bedroom, bottles, slippers and rags strewn about, her face woebegone.

"What's up?" Gypsy sat back on her heels, pushing back her curly mop. "Just these awful shoes."

"What's the matter with 'em, honey?" She held out the offending object.

"This one's a mess. I simply can't wear it."

"Well, what's all the excitement? I didn't know we were going places."

"Lila's home. We're invited to dinner."

"Oh, that. Gosh!" "You don't want to go?"

He grinned at her. "Of course, I do. Tell you what, we'll go out now and buy you a new pair."

She said accusingly: "Thomas Weaver, you know rent day comes next week. And your insurance."

He snapped his fingers. "Right you are. Well, what about those ivory dinges you wore with the dress?"

She struck at her forehead. "What a fool I am! I'd clean forgotten my wedding shoes. I can have them dyed."

She would have them dyed green, brilliant green, and wear the li' string of jade-colored beads Father had given her on Tuesday. Gypsy had given her the last birthday.

Tom watched her, smoking it, as she rummaged through box and drawer, in search of the ivory slippers. She was conscious of his unwelcome silence, and turned to look at him, surprising some new, troubled expression in his eyes.

"What's the matter, darling?" He squinted through the smoke. "Nothing—only I wish I could give you things. You weren't very bright to marry a poor man, Gypsy. You ought to have luxuries. You're so pretty and so young."

"Will you stop harping on that?" He was serious, he said. It made him feel ashamed. A pair of scuffed and shabby dancing shoes, molded to the shape of Gypsy's small feet, accused him.

"Darling, what do you think I want out of life?" Gypsy wanted to know, abandoning the search. "Just money and the things it buys? You ought to know better than that."

Tom said moodily that, of course, he did. But it wasn't much fun for her, he could see that. If she'd married Marko Broughton—

Gypsy laughed aloud. "As if I ever considered that!"

"Well, he did, anyhow," Tom trumped about the room now, it seemed too big for the place. His shoulders were so broad, his legs so long, he made the little table and chair tremble.

"D'you suppose he'll be there Tuesday?" He frowned at her.

Gypsy said, lightly, "How should I know? He's Derek's boss."

"Blooming king of finance," growled Tom. "Thinks he's a buccanner."

Gypsy couldn't help giggling at him—a little. Tom was not appeased. How funny that he should be, after all this time, and after being married to her for two months, still jealous of Marko Broughton!

She pretended not to notice, and went hunting for ivory slippers. They were nowhere to be found.

"I must have left them at home," she said. "Although it's funny, if I did. Mother didn't find them before this."

They did not intend to go out to Blue Hills on the morrow, so she telephoned the house. No, Mrs. Morell had not seen her wedding slippers. They seemed to be irretrievably lost.

This was in the nature of a catastrophe for Gypsy. She came back into the living room, where Tom was sitting at the gate-legged table, with all his papers and figures spread out before him, and sat down without saying a word.

Tom pushed back the wicker of his chair and ran his fingers through his hair. "Find 'em, honey?"

"Well, look, why don't you run over before the shops close and get a pair now. You may not have time Monday . . ."

Gypsy said, stubbornly, that she'd wear the red ones. She did not add what she thought in her heart, they looked so pretty and Lila would be sure to notice. She put on a cheerful face and went out to get a . . . But the thought nagged her, as she boiled and skinned shrimps for salad and cut up handfuls of crisp white celery, and mixed mayonnaise. This time last year she would have rushed out quite carelessly, to buy new sandals. She had spent a great deal of her salary on her young and pretty person. But now—well, it was not fair to Tom. Just the same, when she rushed home from work Tuesday evening to bathe and dress her hair rather than the one she stared at the slippers. Her dress was all right. She had worked on it all night. It looked quite in the mode. Trust Gypsy for that. But not even her clever fingers could transform scuffed and soiled dancing shoes into the semblance of new ones. Thank goodness her little black velvet wrap with the white fur ("cat" the twins called it) still looked nice!

She sang in the tub. It was exciting, going to a party. It was fun. She sat wrapped in her blue negligee, as Tom's key grated in the lock.

"I'm running the tub for you, darling!" She stuck the shoes out of sight, under a chair. Better not put them on until the last minute. She just wouldn't think about them until she had to.

He came down the hall and leaned against the doorframe, regarding her, "Gosh, you look pretty!"

The mirror gave back the reflection of a curly-haired girl with wide, soft, eager eyes. Tom came to her and kissed her swiftly.

"Let me see those shoes."

She hunted them out and gave them into his hands. He turned them over curiously.

"Too bad you have to wear them," Gypsy shrugged. She was a good actress. "Oh, I don't mind. Honestly."

Marko had said, long ago, she remembered: you'll be sorry if you marry a poor man. You like luxury. Well, she'd show him.

HOUSEHOLDEbell Daughters Score
Success in Program
Of Dramatizations

Regardless as to whether their own daughters chanced to be in the casts of the one-act plays which Girls' Ebell gave yesterday afternoon at the first January meeting of Santa Ana Ebell society, women comprising the audience in Ebell auditorium, felt a glow of pride in the achievements and talents of the club daughters, as exemplified in the program.

It was an afternoon of unusual charm for which Girls' Ebell had prepared under the direction of Miss Madge Cleveland of the Junior Theater in Los Angeles, and Miss Cleveland, introduced by Mrs. Charles V. Davis, Ebell president, was commended for the excellence of her work.

Membership Campaign
Preceding entertainment features was the customary interval of business conducted by Mrs. Davis. Of reports offered, that of Mrs. G. Tuthill, membership chairman, was perhaps the outstanding one. She announced that the recent campaign had given 50 new members to the society, 15 reinstatements and eight junior members.

Mrs. Maxwell Burke, curator, suggested section activities to the new members, and told of the proposal for three new groups, public speaking and parliamentary law, a social section for those not caring for bridge, and an arts and crafts section. The finance committee announced a benefit card party for the night of February 13, asking members and friends to reserve that date.

Earl Morrow of the Crippled Children's Relief committee, asked the cooperation of the society in plans for the Roosevelt Birthday ball on the night of January 30.

Clever Plays Given
Turning from business to entertainment, the clubwomen gave their attention to the program which opened with the Kit Morley farce, "The Rehearsal." In this clever sketch in which the trend towards depressing Irish drama is satirized, the girls did excellent work, with the palm going perhaps to Nancy White for her characterization of "The Stricken Old Parrot."

The clever youngsters did just what the little play is designed to do, gave the audience a convincing picture of a group of light-hearted girls embarking on a serious drama, and bickering and worrying about its outcome. "Margaret, the director," was Margaret Munro; "Martha, herself—heaven-help her," was Martha Tuthill; "Margie, an English lady," was Margaret Sawyer; "Jean, stage crew and property," was Jean Munro; "Roberta, the Daughter O'Connell," was Roberta Tuthill.

Entr'acte features introduced the Misses Lucille and Barbara Lambert. Lucille, in her "prim little colonial frock and lace pants," gave the reading "The Second Minute" and danced the slow graceful steps of the minuet. "Plantation Love," her second number, was a bit of Negro dialect.

"Between Two Loves" gave Miss Barbara opportunity for a display of her dramatic powers and she was costumed in keeping with this bit of Italian philosophy. For entrance she gave "Who Sent the Flowers."

The program closed with "The Fortune Teller," a one-act play in which a group of typical "Junior League" intent upon making their bazaar a success, did some lively, and somewhat feminine plotting and counter-plotting. They did such consistently good work that the play was refreshingly natural and convincing. And they looked so lovely—like bright-winged butterflies fluttering over the stage. The gay little story of intrigue was unfurled by the Misses Florence Lissett as "Jo Kerr," Jeanette Klatt as "Jerry Prescott," Jane King as "Jane Meadows," Margaret Sawyer as "Winnie Meadows," Patty Rappas as "Madge Merrill," and Betty Jane Moore as "Louise Warren."

Mrs. Emrys D. White, chairman of the committee, aroused much interest by announcing that Girls' Ebell will give a benefit program of plays at the clubhouse in the near future.

Wedding Anniversary
Calls Many Friends Together

A happy observance of the fortieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Olsen of Costa Mesa was held Sunday in the H. L. Braddy home on the Mesa, where close friends assembled for a dinner party at the invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Johnson of Los Angeles, son-in-law and daughter of the Olsens.

The fact that they were to be honor guests at a party came as a surprise to Mr. and Mrs. Olsen, for their daughter had made her plans with complete secrecy. Dinner was served at a table decorated with a table cloth and centered with a wedding cake upon whose snowy icing was traced in silver, the wedding date of the honor guests. Mr. and Mrs. Olsen were married in Kansas in 1894 and have lived in Orange county for the past half dozen years.

Sharing yesterday's happy features with them were their son, Garth Olsen, and their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, and Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Braddy together with Mr. and Mrs. Emil Pollin, Mrs. Anna Riese and Miss Ella Riese, Huntington Park; Mr. and Mrs. Orin Fee and Mrs. G. Sandstrom, Long Beach; Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Schuster, Pasadena; Mr. and Mrs. Adore Bishop and son Jimmie, of Kansas; Mrs. Avis Dildine and daughter and two sons, Miss Bernice, Frank and Noel Dildine and Albert Orr, of Bell; Delbert Mott of Los Angeles, Miss Ruth Louise Dohner of Santa Ana, Mrs. W. C. Mott and son Claude of Arizona.

EAT AND GROW SLIM

Luncheon
Salad Plate:
1 ring pineapple
1 sliced orange
3 Tbsp. cottage cheese
2 Tbsp. mineral oil mayonnaise
1 slice zucchini, unbuttered
Clear tea with lemon and saccharine.
Calory total, 250.

The same salad will make the family's heart glad, but substitute everyday mayonnaise for the diet variety, unless they like it and it does them good. . . . as a matter of fact, any family somewhat addicted to fat, could use the mineral oil salad dressings with good results to themselves.

In place of zucchini use plenty of hot muffins, only a little butter and a spoonful of jam for each person served. We like muffins made as usual, then a handful of cracked wheat and a double handful of corn flakes mixed into the batter. They are crisp, crackley and too good to last the meal through.

A Tonic for Dry Skins
An egg facial once a week until warm Spring weather comes make "Ladies' pelatate," men purr, horses sweat." will help your skin survive the throbbing atmosphere of heated houses.

Part 1. Wash face thoroughly, working in lather, rinse well. Dip finger tips in beaten egg yolk and work it into the skin of face and neck. Let dry.

Part 2. Whip egg whites just enough to break up. When yolk application has dried pat on a covering of egg white, lie down, relax until dry (20-30 min.) then apply or have applied a second coating of egg white and let it dry, this time 45 minutes, relaxed, sleeping if possible. Pat off the dried egg in tepid water, dash skin with cold water, apply skin food, then a little later the usual make-up.

This egg facial nourishes the skin, firms it and keeps it free from "black heads," a sure sign of a clogged, choking skin.

TODAY'S RECIPE
Frozen Fruit Salad
1 cup boiled salad dressing
2 cups cream, whipped stiff
1 cup grated pineapple
1 cup diced orange pulp
1 cup sliced bananas.
Mix in order and freeze. When well frozen shave a package of cream cheese, previously frozen, over the salad, scooping it on salad in loose shavings, or shave it over the salad portions just as they are ready to be served. . . . this last is the better way.

Have plenty of finely shredded lettuce, well crisped, drop a handful on the salad plate, place the salad and serve at once. No dressing other than the cheese is used with this salad. . . . that would be truly painting the rose.

Serve this salad as a main dish for a party. Use ice box rolls with it and finish with an orange ice.

The calories are somewhat scanty, 3000 of them, but there are ten generous servings, so if you stretch the servings a trifle.

Wednesday: Walnut Wafers, bits of crisp goodness I caught a young friend of mine baking in the dead of night.

Housewarming Given as Surprise to School Superintendent

Friends associated in various capacities with Frank A. Henderson, city superintendent of schools, joined Saturday night in plans for a surprise housewarming in the lovely new home, 2141 Riverside drive, where the Hendersons have recently become established.

Mrs. Henderson had been taken into the confidence of guests, conspiring with them to keep the affair a successful surprise to Mr. Henderson. The new home, of Monterey architecture, provided a delightful setting for the evening.

The group presented Mr. and Mrs. Henderson with a colonial console set of bowl and candlesticks, an especially appropriate gift since the interior of the residence is finished in colonial style.

A variety of diversions had been planned for the evening, which was brought to a happy close with the serving of ice-cream, cookies and coffee.

Those who arranged for the pleasant evening with Mr. and Mrs. Henderson and their son and daughter, John and Mary, were Messrs. and Mesdames George Wells, Rollo Hays, M. B. Youel, George Newcom, J. R. Parker, Willard Deaton, Arthur Hadley, M. K. Fisk, H. G. Nelson, Lyle B. Mitchell, D. K. Hammond, Dr. and Mrs. Maxwell W. Burke, Dr. Willis and Dr. Margaret Baker, Miss Huberteen Kueneman, Miss Dorothy Freking, Miss Wilma Paterson, Ellsworth Weekly and Ward Gilliam.

Eastern Star

Holding their first meeting since installation of new officers took place, members of Santa Ana chapter O. E. S. met last night in Masonic temple. Mrs. Irma Folger and Harvey Dimmitt, worthy matron and patron, presided.

Visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Houghman of Burbank, Mrs. H. E. man of Fort Wayne, Ind., Blanche Marguerat of Chicago, Mrs. Donald Waters of Garden Grove and members of Hermosa chapter, including Mrs. Nell Neighbour and Franklin West, worthy matron and patron, who were accorded special honors.

Mrs. Lou Dawson, a new member was introduced. Lloyd Folger was chairman for a Spanish program given by Sol Gonzalez and his troubadours. Miss Ruth Frothingham was at the piano; Esteban Rodriguez played the cello; Miss Wilhelmia Jimenez sang; Miss Virginia Wilson danced and Ricardo Duran played the mandolin.

By means of cards distributed, members found their partners for the refreshment hour which followed. They adjourned to the dining room where dolls in swings overhead held red streamers leading to each place at decorated tables. New Year's resolutions for all were read aloud.

Homesteaders Lodge

When Homesteaders' Life association met Friday night in Hoffman hall under the presidency of Oscar Knox, the business session included among other announcements that of several members on the sick list. Helen Smith, Andrew E. Herold and Elmer Ellington.

Reports on the membership contest showed the men of the order strong in the lead. Plans for future sessions included a tamale supper for the meeting next Friday night in Hoffman hall.

The entertainment program provided by James W. Ryan and his committee offered tap dancing by Betty Courtney and Valma Stroud, readings by Mamie Matthews, and selections by the orchestra. The music continued for the remainder of the evening and members enjoyed dancing. Coffee and sandwiches were served by Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Knox and Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Crane.

New Member Initiated
At Meeting of Auxiliary

Mrs. C. A. Rousseau was initiated as a new member of Women's auxiliary to Santa Ana Typographical union at a meeting held last night in the home of Mrs. Frank Stillwell, 819 West Fourth street.

Mrs. J. E. Swanger, president, conducted the business interval. Plans were made to hold a social meeting Monday, January 22 at 1 p. m. in the home of Mrs. V. C. Shidler, 1129 South Garnsey street. At this time the group is to select a pattern for a quilt to be started in the near future.

Mrs. Rousseau and Mrs. Norman Daechner were appointed to serve as new members of the rally committee.

The hostess used individual trays, daintily appointed in serving a salad course during the social time which followed the business interval.

Those present were the new member, Mrs. Rousseau, and Mesdames Warren Brakeman, William Lawrence, J. H. Patison, J. W. Parkinson, Mabel Sherwood, V. C. Shidler, J. E. Swanger, Carl C. Thrasher, W. H. Fields, Carl Fisher, William Fitcher and the hostess, Mrs. Stillwell.

Mrs. Brakeman, 208 1-2 East Tenth street, is to be hostess at the next business meeting, Monday, February 12 at 7:30 p. m.

Two Events Celebrate
January Birthday Anniversary

Birthday pleasures for Charles Pique included two affairs, the most recent of which came Sunday in his home on Irvine ranch when he shared honors with other members of a club of former Denver, Colo., residents. Little Miss Olive Pique, daughter of the home, and Mrs. P. Wallick of Pomona have birthdays in January, and so came in for special courtesies throughout the day.

The celebration was an all-day event, with a delicious covered-dish luncheon served at noon.

Those present for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Stokes, John Wallick, Mrs. Jones and daughter, Golda Ann, and Mr. Kelly, of Ontario; Mr. and Mrs. P. Wallick, Pomona; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Grimes and daughters, Ruth and Catherine, Glendale; Mr. and Mrs. William Flint and daughters, Virginia and Dorothy, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Wallick and son, of Huntington Park; Mr. and Mrs. J. Wallick and family, Long Beach; Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Slevers, Santa Ana; Mr. and Mrs. Pique and daughters, Olive and Charles.

Evening Party
A dinner party was given Friday night in the Pique home in celebration of Mr. Pique's natal day. Friends planned the event as a surprise to him, preparing a delicious covered-dish menu served at 6:30 o'clock. Red tapers and cotoneaster served as table decorations.

Games of 500 followed, with Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Slevers scoring high.

Date Announced for
D. A. R. Council in Pasadena

"Changes in Our International Policies" as the subject of Mrs. John A. Tessmann's talk Saturday afternoon before members of Santa Ana chapter, Daughters of America Revolution, provided one of the most interesting and instructive talks which the chapter has been privileged to hear this year.

The address was the chief program feature at a meeting held with Miss Mabel McFadden, 908 North Main street, and Mrs. Tessmann was presented by the regent, Mrs. Henry W. Guthrie.

The program also included music with Mrs. Charles C. Briscoe as soloist and Mrs. Malcolm Macurda as her accompanist. Two of Mrs. Briscoe's songs, "Rest" and "Omnipotence" were especially interesting because the words had been written by Mrs. George Bond, a member of the chapter, while Mrs. Macurda had composed the music. "The Boat Song" was an encore number.

Mrs. Guthrie announced the Southern California D. A. R. council meeting to be held January 16 in Hotel Greene, Pasadena. The session will open at 11 a. m. with luncheon at noon. The general theme will be "Reminiscences," and Mrs. Jesse Albright, a charter member of Santa Ana chapter, was appointed to represent the chapter and tell its early history.

Mrs. A. J. McFadden called attention to the Russian tea which High School Girl Reserves are giving in the Y. W. clubrooms next Saturday afternoon, and at which Dr. Santa Poushkaroff will be the speaker.

During the social hour with which the afternoon came to a close, refreshments were served by Miss McFadden assisted by the Junior social club, a little composed of Mrs. J. H. Metzgar, chairman, Miss Ada McFadden, Miss Arlie Cleveland, Miss Vanche Plumb, Miss Harriet Whidden and Mrs. M. J. Eaton.

Members of the cast were Bill Green, Audrey McDonald, Dorothy Drew, Betty Martin, Lester Bayne, Al Halderman, Agnes Brady and William Hudspeth.

Miss Myrtle Martin presented the junior college Women's Quartet in two selections.

Business matters of the section were taken up under Mrs. Alice Hill Hatch's direction in the absence of Mrs. Charles Drutt.

Ebell Daughters Score Success in Program Of Dramatizations

Regardless as to whether their own daughters chanced to be in the casts of the one-act plays which Girls' Ebell held yesterday afternoon at the first January meeting of Santa Ana Ebell society, women comprising the audience in Ebell auditorium, felt a glow of pride in the achievements and talents of the club daughters, as exemplified in the program.

It was an afternoon of unusual charm for which Girls' Ebell had prepared under the direction of Miss Madge Cleveland of the Junior League in Los Angeles, and Miss Cleveland, introduced by Mrs. Charles V. Davis, Ebell president, was commended for the excellence of her work.

Membership Campaign
Preceding entertainment features was the customary interval of business conducted by Mrs. Davis. Of reports offered, that of Mrs. G. Tuthill, membership chairman, was perhaps the outstanding one. She announced that the recent campaign had given 50 new members to the society, 15 reinstatements and eight junior members.

Mrs. Maxwell Burke, curator, suggested section activities to the new members, and told of the proposal for three new groups: speaking and parliamentary law, a social section for those not caring for bridge, and an arts and crafts section. The finance committee announced a benefit card party for the night of February 13, asking members and friends to reserve that date.

Earl Morrow of the Crippled Children's Relief Committee asked the cooperation of the society in plans for the Roosevelt Birthday ball on the night of January 20.

Clever Plays Given
Turning from business to entertainment, the clubwomen gave their attention to the program which opened with the Kit Morley farce, "The Rehearsal." In this clever sketch in which the trend towards depressing Irish drama is satirized, the girls did excellent work, with the palm going perhaps to Nancy White for her characterization of "The Stricken Old Parent."

The clever youngsters did just what the little play is designed to do, gave the audience a convincing picture of a group of light-hearted girls embarking on a serious drama, and bickering and worrying about its outcome. "Margaret, the director," was Margaret Munro; "Martha, herself—heaven-help her," was Martha Tuthill; "Margie, an English lady," was Margaret Sawyer; "Jean, stage crew and property," was Jean Munro; "Roberta, the Daughter O'Connell," was Roberta Tuthill.

Extracurricular features introduced the Misses Lucille and Barbara Lambert, Lucille, in her prim little colonial frock and lace pants, gave the reading "The Second Minute" and danced the slow grace-minuet of the minute. "Pantation Love," her second number, was a bit of Negro dialect.

"Between Two Loves" gave Miss Barbara opportunity for a display of her dramatic powers and she was costumed in keeping with this bit of Italian philosophy. For encore she gave "Who Sent the Flowers."

The program closed with "The Fortune Teller," a one-act play in which a group of typical "Junior Leaguers" intent upon making their bazaar a success, did some involuntary feminine plotting and counterplotting. They did such consistently good work that the play was refreshingly natural and convincing. And they looked so lovely—like bright-winged butterflies fluttering over the stage. The gay little story of intrigue was unfolded by the Misses Florence Liggett as "Jo Kerr," Jeannette Kiant as "Sally Gifford," Barbara Davis as "Jerry Prescott," Jane Kin as "Jane Meadows," Margaret Sawyer as "Winnie Meadows," Patty Hap as "Madge Merrill," and Betty Jane Moore as "Louise Warren."

Mrs. Emrys D. White, chairman of the program, aroused much interest by announcing that Girls' Ebell will give a benefit program of plays at the clubhouse in the near future.

At Tea Hour
Completing the afternoon was the reception to new members who were welcomed by Mrs. Davis and her officers and introduced to the Peacock room where Mrs. James Harding, chairman, and Mrs. Robert Alexander, assistant chairman of the courtesy committee, had charge. They had made the tea table very lovely with orchid and white blossoms and—hid tapers and served tea and home-made cookies.

Wedding Anniversary Calls Many Friends Together

A happy observance of the fortieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Olsen of Costa Mesa was held Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Johnson of Los Angeles, son-in-law and daughter of the Olsens.

The fact that they were to be honor guests at a party came as a surprise to Mr. and Mrs. Olsen, for their daughter had made her plans with complete secrecy. Dinner was served at a table decorated with white flowers and centered with a wedding cake upon whose snowy icing was traced in silver, the wedding date of the honor guests. Mr. and Mrs. Olsen were married in Kansas in 1894 and have lived in Orange county for the past half dozen years.

Sharing yesterday's happy features with them were their son, Garth Olsen, and their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, and Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Braddy together with Mr. and Mrs. Emil Pollin, Mrs. Anna Riese and Miss Ella Riese, Huntington Park; Mr. and Mrs. Orin Fee and Mrs. G. C. Mott and son Claude of Arizona.

ANN MEREDITH'S MIXING BOWL

EAT AND GROW SLIM

Luncheon

Salad Plate:
1 ring pineapple
1 sliced orange
2 Tbsp. cottage cheese
2 Tbsp. mineral oil mayonnaise
1 slice zwieback, unbuttered
Clear tea with lemon and saccharine.
Calory total, 250.

The same salad will make the family's heart glad, but substitute everyday mayonnaise for the diet variety, unless they like it and it does them good. . . . as a matter of fact, any family somewhat addicted to fat, could use the mineral oil salad dressings with good results to themselves.

In place of zwieback use plenty of hot muffins, only a little butter and a spoonful of jam for each person served. We like muffins made as usual, then a handful of cracked wheat and a double handful of corn flakes mixed into the batter. They are crisp, crackly and too good to last the meal through.

A Tonic for Dry Skins
An egg facial once a week until warm Spring weather comes more makes "Ladies' palpitant, men perspire, horses sweat," will help your skin survive the throbbing atmosphere of heated houses.

Part 1. Wash face thoroughly, working in lather, rinse well. Dip finger tips in beaten egg yolk and work it into the skin of face and neck. Let dry.

Part 2. Whip egg whites just enough to break up. When yolk application has dried pat on a covering of egg white, lie down, relax until dry (20-30 min.) then apply or have applied a second coating of egg white and let it dry, this time 45 minutes, relaxed, sleeping if possible. Pat off the dried egg in tepid water, dash skin with cold water, apply skin food, then a little later the usual make-up.

This egg facial nourishes the skin, firms it and keeps it free from "black heads," a sure sign of a clogged, choking skin.

TODAY'S RECIPE
Frozen Fruit Salad
1 cup boiled salad dressing
2 cups cream, whipped stiff
1 cup grated pineapple
1 cup diced orange pulp
1 cup diced bananas.
Mix in order and freeze. When well frozen shave a package of cream cheese, previously frozen, over the salad, scoop it on salad in loose shavings, or shave it over the salad portions just as they are ready to be served. . . . Have plenty of finely shredded lettuce, well crisped, drop a handful on the salad plate, place the salad and serve at once. No dressing other than the cheese is used with this salad. . . . that would be truly painting the rose.

Serve this salad as a main dish for a party. Use ice box rolls with it and finish with an orange ice.

The calories are somewhat scandalous: 3600 of them but there are ten generous servings, twelve if you stretch the servings a trifle.

Wednesday: Walnut Wafers, bits of crisp goodness I caught a young friend of mine baking in the dead of night.

Housewarming Given as Surprise to School Superintendent

Friends associated in various capacities with Frank A. Henderson, city superintendent of schools, joined Saturday night in plans for a surprise housewarming in the lovely new home, 2141 Riverside drive, where the Hendersons have recently become established.

Mrs. Henderson had been taken into the confidence of guests, conspiring with them to keep the affair a successful surprise to Mr. Henderson. The new home, of Monterey architecture, provided a delightful setting for the evening.

The group presented Mr. and Mrs. Henderson with a colonial console set of bowl and candlesticks, an especially appropriate gift since the interior of the residence is finished in colonial style. A variety of diversions had been planned for the evening, which was brought to a happy close with the serving of ice-cream, cookies and coffee.

Those who arranged for the pleasant evening with Mr. and Mrs. Henderson and their son and daughter, John and Mary, were Messrs. and Mesdames George Wells, Rollo Hays, M. B. Youel, George Newcom, J. R. Parker, Willard Denton, Arthur Hadley, McKee Fisk, H. G. Nelson, Lyle B. Mitchell, D. K. Hammond, Dr. and Mrs. Maxwell W. Burke, Dr. Willis and Dr. Margaret Baker, Mrs. Hubertene Kueneman, Miss Dorothy Prekling, Miss Wilma Paterston, Ellsworth Weekly and Ward Gillilan.

Eastern Star

Visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Hougham of Burbank, Mrs. Hardman of Fort Wayne, Ind., Blanche Marguerat of Chicago, Mrs. Donald Waters of Garden Grove and members of Hermosa chapter, including Mrs. Nell Neighbour and Franklin West, worthy matron and patron, who were accorded special honors.

Mrs. Lou Dawson, a new member was introduced. Lloyd Folger was chairman for a Spanish program given by Sol Gonzales and his Troubadours. Miss Ruth Frothingham was at the piano; Esteban Rodriguez played the "cello"; Miss Wilhelmina sminguez sang; Miss Virginia Ellison sang; and Ricardo Duran played the mandolin.

By means of cards distributed, members found their partners for the refreshment hour which followed. They adjourned to the dining room where dolls in swings overhead held red streamers leading to each place at decorated tables. New Year's resolutions for all were read aloud.

Homesteaders Lodge
When Homesteaders' Life association met Friday night in Hoffman hall under the presidency of Oscar Knox, the business session included among other announcements that of several members on the sick list. Helen Smith, Andrew E. Herold and Elsie Ellison. Reports on the membership contest showed the men of the order still in the lead. Plans for future sessions included a tamale supper for the meeting next Friday night in Hoffman hall.

The entertainment program provided by James W. Ryan and his committee offered tap dancing by Betty Courtney and Velma Stroud, readings by Mamie Matthews, and selections by the orchestra. The music continued for the remainder of the evening and members enjoyed dancing, coffee and sandwiches were served by Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Knox and Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Crane.

Two Events Celebrate January Birthday Anniversary
Birthday pleasures for Charles Pique included two affairs, the most recent of which came Sunday in his home on Irvine ranch when he shared honors with two other members of a club of former Denver, Colo., residents. Little Miss Olive Pique, daughter of the home, and Mrs. P. Wallick of Pomona have birthdays in January, and so came in for special courtesies throughout the day.

The celebration was an all-day event, with a delicious covered-dish luncheon served at noon. Those present for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Stokes, John Wallick, Mrs. Jones and daughter, Golda Ann, and Mr. Kelly, of Ontario; Mr. and Mrs. P. Wallick, Pomona; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Grimes and daughters, Ruth and Catherine, Glendale; Mr. and Mrs. Flint and daughter, Virginia, and Dorothy, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Wallick and son, of Huntington Park; Mr. and Mrs. J. Wallick and family, Long Beach; Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Sievers, Santa Ana; Mr. and Mrs. Pique and daughters, Olive and Charlene.

Evening Party
A dinner party was given Friday night in the Pique home in celebration of Mr. Pique's natal day. Friends planned the event as a surprise to him, preparing a delicious covered-dish menu served at 6:30 o'clock. Red tapers and coterieaster served as table decorations.

Games of 600 followed, with Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Sievers scoring high.

Date Announced for D. A. R. Council in Pasadena

"Changes in Our International Policies" as the subject of Mrs. John A. Tessmann's talk Saturday afternoon before members of Santa Ana chapter, Daughters of American Revolution, provided one of the most interesting and instructive talks which the chapter has been privileged to hear this year.

The address was the chief program feature at a meeting held with Miss Mabel McFadden, 906 North Main street, and Mrs. Tessmann was presented by the regent, Mrs. Henry W. Guthrie. The program also included music with Mrs. Charles C. Briscoe as soloist and Mrs. Malcolm Macurda as her accompanist. Two of Mrs. Briscoe's songs, "Reet" and "Omnipotence" were especially interesting because the words had been written by Mrs. George Bond, a member of the chapter, while Mrs. Macurda had composed the music. "The Boat Song" was an encore number.

Mrs. Guthrie announced the Southern California D. A. R. council meeting to be held January 16 in Hotel Greene, Pasadena. The session will open at 11 a. m. with luncheon at noon. MUST REACH FOR GUIDE, PASTOR SAYS

VILLA PARK, Jan. 9.—At Villa Park Community church Sunday morning the pastor, Wesley P. Ford, used as a text, Psalm 94:18, "When I said, my feet slippeth; thy mercy, O Lord, held me up." He said in part:

"My room is on the fourth floor and we have been without lights. But there is a railing that leads up to the fourth floor. We have a guide that leads us all the way, but it is useless unless we take time to contact it. Unless we cling to it, it is of little value. Like the Guide in life, it is not enough to know it is there. A guide is of little value unless we take time to grasp it and cling to it. We must follow the guide."

"Several years ago I worked for the Standard Oil company. The company had numerous safety rules. When we began work we had to put on a safety belt, which was tied on a long rope. We were bound by a safety rope and we could go where we wanted to go. We could do nothing without the safety belt; a man could not even sustain himself. So we cannot sustain ourselves without the safety of the Lord.

"There are men who do not wish to find Him and so also there are men who say they would cling to Him if they could find Him. Generally, it seems to me that such men are not very anxious to find the Lord. A guide does not put itself in our way except as we seek it. We must pause as we approach the darkness and reach out first to find the rail.

"Jesus found the arm of God, but He did not sit down to rest. He made God available for every man, woman and child around Him. What joy it must have been to Jesus to know that God was at His side, and oh, friends, what joy it is to have Jesus at our side."

Two Old Spinning Wheels Owned By Orange Resident

ORANGE, Jan. 9.—Some persons are lucky enough to have an old spinning wheel in the parlor, spinning dreams of the long, long ago, but Mrs. Frances Kerr, East Palmira avenue, is doubly lucky in that she has two spinning wheels which date back to Colonial days.

One of the wheels is operated with a double thread, and according to Mrs. Kerr, is one of the few made from a pattern lost shortly after the death of the man who originated it. Mrs. Kerr believes from stories handed down in her family, that her double thread wheel is one of five made at that time.

Mrs. Kerr has one of the most interesting and authentic collections of family heirlooms in this vicinity and her collection ranges from glass, brass and clothing to furniture, samplers and documents.

TREAT A COLD IN THE FIRST STAGE!

A cold ordinarily goes through 3 stages. The Dry Stage, the first 24 hours; the Watery Secretion Stage, from 1 to 3 days; and the Mucous Secretion Stage. The first stage is the time to "nail" a cold—and Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine does it. Doesn't "mookey" with a cold, but drives it completely out of the system. 30¢ and 50¢, all druggists.

TOASTMASTERS HOLD LUNCHEON AND PROGRAM

ORANGE, Jan. 9.—Two talks, both of which revealed careful thought and study in their preparation, were given at the meeting of the Toastmasters section of the Orange Women's club, yesterday at a luncheon meeting at the Women's clubhouse. Mrs. E. H. Smith spoke on "Germany and Hitlerism" and Mrs. Ben Brubaker on "America's Economic Relations with Russia."

Mrs. Smith told of Hitler as a man and as a leader. She declared that he demanded complete obedience from those under him, and she told something of the recognition of youth in Germany. She also painted a picture of the concentration camps in Germany.

Mrs. Brubaker brought out in her talk the requirements which will be America's in establishing trade relations with Russia and told of the exports and imports which might be expected. Miss Flo Scarritt was toastmaster.

Roll call was answered with wishes for the New Year. A number of these were in verse and nearly all were of a serious nature. A number of wishes were expressed for international peace. Twenty-five members were present. Mrs. Fred Alden was absent on account of illness and Miss Mabel Faulkner was reported as recovering from a recent fall in which she injured her ankle.

The next program, to be given February 12, will be in charge of Mrs. E. H. Smith and Mrs. Jane Welch. Subjects to be discussed will be "How Shall We Pay for All This?" and "The Building and Cost of Boulder Dam." Roll call will be answered with limericks on debt. Mrs. C. E. Rowell gave a talk on public speaking and pointed out that in 1870 in a letter to his son, Charles Dickens had given four points on public speaking which still hold good. These included, she said, taking pains in preparing a speech, opening the mouth in speaking, directing speech to person further away from speaker and taking care not to seem hurried. Mrs. Rowell gave a list of 24 words ordinarily mispronounced.

THE TINY MITES

Brave Scouty to the Eskimo said, "Say, lad, I'll just bet I know why you hugged little Doty. It's because you're glad we came."

"You're right," replied the friendly boy. "Your coming filled my heart with joy. I've had no one to play with for a long time. It's a shame!"

Then Duncy shouted, "Gee, I'm cold. I only wish I could be rolled up in a nice, big blanket that would stretch from head to feet."

"I'm shivering. What can I do?" The Eskimo said, "I'll show you. Just follow me. We'll find some furs. For warmth they are a treat."

"If you mean fur coats, hip hurray," the whole bunch heard sweet Goldy say. "I don't, though," said the little boy. "They're merely blankets, miss."

And then he led the Tinties to the doorway of a big igloo. He reached inside, pulled out a fur, and shouted, "Look at this!"

"The two girls can wrap up real tight and then I'm sure they'll be all right." And that's just what the girls did. They were comfy as could be.

Poor Doty stood nearby and shook, until the Eskimo cried, "Look! I have another fur." And Duncy said, "Ah! That's for me!"

"Well, go ahead and take it, son. I'd rather run and have some fun," said Scouty. "Gee, real exercise keeps me from getting cold."

Just then the father Eskimo cried out aloud, "Hi, hi! Hi, hi! I'm ailing penguins," he exclaimed. "They'll do whatever they're told."

"My son has trained them very well, as you can very shortly tell." Then, up came two large penguins. "Gee, how funny," Doty cried.

"They're friendly, and I'm not afraid. They walk like folks in a parade." The others also laughed, to see the birds strut, side by side.

(Scouty has some fun with a husky dog in the next story.)

GARDEN GROVE MUTUAL CITRUS RECEIPTS TOTAL $100,519.66; 106,518 FIELD BOXES HANDLED

GARDEN GROVE, Jan. 9.—Receipts of $100,519.66 are shown in the annual report of the Garden Grove Mutual Orange association, as given here today by E. J. Smale, manager of this affiliation of the Mutual Orange Distributors. The house handled 106,518 field boxes of fruit during the year and had a packout of slightly more than 63 per cent.

The annual meeting was at noon today, with a turkey dinner served to 125 growers and guests in the Woman's clubhouse. The business session was directed by J. W. Crill, president. Invocation was by Glenn C. Bower, one of the directors of the association. Other officers taking part in the meeting were W. K. Sutter, secretary, and Jesse Long, vice president. The auditor's report was given by W. L. Birkel.

Officials from the MOD sales organization who gave talks on general conditions in the citrus industry were C. P. Earley, general manager; W. H. Blodgett, field manager; J. A. Stewart, sales manager; and E. J. Brickett, manager of the supply department.

The report by Smale detailed a difficult year, with general depressed conditions throughout the markets, and fruit not up to the usual quality, due to wind damage. Yet his viewpoint into the immediate future is optimistic, the report states.

"We had before us not only these national and local conditions," he stated, "but in our own immediate case we had the problem of a packinghouse destroyed in the earthquake of last March. Yet we cut the deficit 10 cents a box, we rebuilt the house into a more modern, safer structure than it was before, and our association now is in better financial condition than it was a year ago."

Refunds totaled $15,777.41 and the packing refund was paid to the growers at the dinner. Total returns were 33 cents a pack-out box, which, with the reduction of 10 cents in the packing refund, gives a refund 11 cents greater than last year. The past year saw the lowest packing costs in the history of the co-operative, the report sets out.

With increased acreage, the association in 1934 will handle about the same tonnage as in 1933. In spite of the generally decreased crop throughout the citrus-growing districts.

GARDEN GROVE MUTUAL CITRUS RECEIPTS TOTAL $100,519.66; 106,518 FIELD BOXES HANDLED

GARDEN GROVE, Jan. 9. — Receipts of $100,519.66 are shown in the annual report of the Garden Grove Mutual Orange association, as given here today by E. J. Smale, manager of this affiliation of the Mutual Orange Distributors. The house handled 106,518 field boxes of fruit during the year and had a packout of slightly more than 63 per cent.

The annual meeting was at noon today with a turkey dinner served to 135 growers and guests in the Woman's clubhouse. The business session was directed by J. W. Crill, president. Invocation was by Glenn C. Bower, one of the directors of the association. Other officers taking part in the meeting were W. K. Sutter, secretary, and Jess Long, vice president. The auditor's report was given by W. L. Birkel.

Officials from the MOD sales organization who gave talks on general conditions in the citrus industry were C. P. Barley, general manager; W. H. Blodgett, field manager; J. A. Stewart, sales manager, and E. J. Birkel, manager of the supply department.

The report by Smale detailed a difficult year, with general depressed conditions throughout the markets, and fruit not up to the usual quality, due to wind damage. Yet his viewpoint into the immediate future is optimistic, the report states.

"We had before us not only these national and local conditions," he stated, "but in our own immediate case we had the problem of a packinghouse destroyed in the earthquake of last March. Yet we cut the retain 10 cents a box, we rebuilt the house into a more modern, safer structure than it was before, and our association now is in better financial condition than it was a year ago."

Refunds totalled $15,777.41 and the packing refund was paid to the growers at the dinner. These total returns were 23 cents a packed box, which, with the reduction of 10 cents in the packing retain, gives a refund 11 cents greater than last year. The past year saw the lowest packing costs in the history of the co-operative, the report sets out.

With increased acreage, the association in 1934 will handle about the same tonnage as in 1933, in spite of the generally decreased acreage throughout the citrus-growing districts.

Johnston said he held the consumers' crowd in much esteem. He is constantly taking pot shots at them. He thinks they do nothing except object. He was aiming at them when he issued executive order No. 53 which stated:

"The Advisory Boards are not here simply to make a record. No group here, whether industrial, consumer or labor, can be permitted to dominate."

The Henderson appointment is part of a gentle reorganization in that outfit.

The biggest kid at the White House Christmas party for the young people was Mr. Roosevelt himself, and that is no exaggeration. He stayed up until 2 a. m.

Mr. Roosevelt sounded a new keynote for the consumer organization in his message, saying they should "enter the market place equipped with sufficient organization to insist upon fair prices and honest sales."

Morgenthau has sought to bury the hatchet with the press. He invited the boys out to dinner recently.

The Government is not guaranteeing the interest on farm credit because it wants to but because the step is needed in order to market that type of paper.

In a speech the other day Jerome Frank, the Liberal leader in the AAA, made the statement that the Roosevelt Administration is out to preserve the profit system.

He said those who oppose Roosevelt might force abolition of the profit system. That idea fits in snugly with the President's message to Congress.

EXAMINATIONS

Examinations for deposit insurance were started in this territory. Casual suggestions that conventional valuations be given to security holdings were ignored. Current market prices were uniformly applied. Solvency under those conditions means something.

At the close of the year numerous Stock Exchange members analyzed their 1933 business. They found that with a return of higher prices and greater activity many of their old customers had come back. But the most popular type of the big operator, the $12,000 a year man or woman, is still out of the market. At present the approximate annual income of those who are back speculating or investing is $20,000.

Local viewers-with-alarm are preparing to work up a lather about civil works. These represent the latest version of the uncontrolled-inflation bugaboo on the premise that increasing numbers of people will have to be added to the government payroll and none can be taken off. The theory is that this will unhinge the national budget.

They insist that at no time will the President be able to say "the depression is over" without serious repercussions.

Reports received here from various sections indicate that the wage differential and veterans' preference are brewing plenty of teapot tempests. Several cases are on file in political ammunition chests where veterans without dependents have given up lower paying jobs to qualify for civil works and thereby shut out non-veterans.

Even if his opponents agree that civil works is fulfilling its major purpose of stimulating purchasing power in a hurry.

Federal intervention has cured some bad local work relief ailments. Tales of highly paid administrative jobs and outside graft at the workers' expense under county supervision are frequent.

New York's wealthy neighborhood county has been named among others. There are no charges of the sort against federal operations in this neighborhood.

White collar workers are progressing more rapidly since a large accounting firm instituted a 10 per cent pay cut just before the year-end rush.

Work began. But a good many potential members are still timorous about signing up. The Federation of Labor is expected to take up official cudgels on their behalf before long.

The French effort to scrap half their bombing planes if Germany agreed to a limitation of armaments was a distinct surprise. In reality the gesture was not quite so generous as it seemed. The French heavy bomber is constructed to drop a few large explosive bombs; the new German planes which are much faster are equipped to drop many gas bombs. The old heavy French planes would be useless in case of hostilities.

James G. McDonald—League of Nations High Commissioner for German Refugees—who is in this country on a flying visit will return to Europe shortly with confidential promises in his pocket that the United States will be more generous in admitting victims of the Nazi regime.

Out of a total of over 60,000 refugees France has been caring for 35,000 while the United States has let in less than 400.

On January 1st, 1934, the active German army, exclusive of reserves, numbered 1,950,000 men under arms. The detailed figures are: Reichswehr (regular army), 165,000; military police, 150,000; Storm Troops, 800,000; Steel Helmets; 400,000; Labor Camps, 265,000; Special Guards (black uniformed Storm Troops), 70,000; former Reichswehr soldiers "on special assignments," 100,000. All these units have had uniform training during the last eight months and regimental numbers never overlap.

When Italian Undersecretary of State Suich recently visited Berlin he was secretly accompanied by Colonel Bianchi of the Italian general staff. Bianchi had numerous conferences with high German army officers particularly with General Ostfeldt, chief of the mobilization department.

NEW YORK

INSURANCE
 New York banks—especially savings banks—which don't like deposit insurance getting under from under before the permanent plan goes into effect.

The latest stunt is a bill to be introduced in the New York legislature. It will provide that no financial institution chartered by the State of New York shall subscribe to any guarantee fund for the benefit of institutions outside the state. An earnest effort will be made to convince the lawmakers that their state is carrying more than its share of the burden.

Sponsors of the idea have little hope of getting the commercial banks excited but hope for a compromise which will give the savings banks an out. The bill may possibly get through the legislature. But local insiders can't quite see Governor Lehman approving a step in opposition to the President's policy so it looks as if the genius which conceived the idea will probably be its own reward.

ANAHEIM, Jan. 9.—After making plans for several social events in February that will immediately precede the Lenten season members of the Anaheim Eboli club then turned their attention to an address on "The Bible as Literature" that was given by Dr. Carl K. Knopf of the University of California, yesterday afternoon when the general meeting was held in the clubrooms at Knights of Pythias hall. Mrs. Walter Ross presided over the afternoon.

Instead of meeting on the afternoon of February 5, members will entertain their husbands and friends with a dinner and program in the evening. Mrs. Charles H. Mann to be chairman of the affair. Mrs. C. A. Neighbor, program chairman, announced that an excellent program has been arranged for the occasion.

With a tentative date set for Friday night, February 16, the Eboli club will entertain with a formal dance. Committee members for the event will be announced some time this week. Mrs. Knopf stated, adding that the perfected plans will be announced in the regular club monthly bulletin.

Choosing the Old Testament for the basis of his address, Dr. Knopf, head of the religious education department at the University, pointed to the Bible as a beautiful piece of literary, philosophy, oratory and short stories.

Because the Bible has become a religious document many people are prejudiced against reading it, he said as he deplored conditions that have taken the studying of it out of many educational centers. Its doctrine of equality has greatly influenced the development of the western hemisphere, he pointed out.

"If you have missed reading the Bible as literature," he said, "you have missed a great thing. It is a literature that burns with great ideas, deep philosophy, sublime stories and thrilling odes and lyrics of the prophets."

Drawing a comparison between present day political and economic conditions and the time of the Hebrews when empires were built on military despotism he said, "I don't have to be a prophet to know that when either modern or ancient nations try to build on that line they are doomed to failure."

Leading up to his address Mrs. H. A. Johnston talked on "Women of the Bible" during the luncheon hour and told of the lives of women that have become famous down through the ages and have been models for present day womanhood.

The musical program was presented by the Mozart club from the Anaheim union high school, directed by Miss Helen Ebelers. The program included "A Wild Rose," "Goodnight! Goodnight, Beloved" and "The Little Quaker Maid."

CHIROPRACTOR WILL DISCUSS GERMS IN TALK

"Are Germs the Cause of Disease" is the title of the lecture to be given by Dr. James Workman, one of Orange County's leading chiropractors, during the "Keep Smiling" program starting at 8:45 this evening on KREG.

SUPREME COURT MAKES SIGNIFICANT DECISION

The most significant United States Supreme Court decision that has been handed down certainly for 50 years, was rendered yesterday in a Minnesota case. The plaintiff in the case maintained that a Minnesota law extending the time of payment of a mortgage was valid, as against the provisions in the mortgage, calling for the payment on a certain date. A foreclosure had been had by the loan company, and the case was carried to the Supreme court, on the issue as to whether the provision in the Minnesota constitution, declaring against the "impairment of a contract," would stand and apply to this contract of loan, as against the law which would change one of the elements of the contract to extend the time of payment of the loan.

This question, in principle, is involved in innumerable laws, in the NRA, in the pro-rate law, and, in fact, in every piece of state and national legislation, whereby the law imposes rules and regulations upon groups and society as a whole, contrary to the individual agreements which may have been made by certain ones in the group. This question, therefore, was squarely before the Supreme court, and the court, by a decision of five to four, with Chief Justice Hughes reading the opinion for the majority, declared that it was not a violation of the Constitution, within the purposes contemplated by that body. The spirit of John Marshall must have hovered over the court at that hour.

Justice Hughes, in his opinion, practically did that on which John Marshall established the precedent, of construing a rigid Constitution in language to the spirit and purpose which the framers had in mind when they made the Constitution. He declared that the provisions regarding the rights of contract were qualified, not only by the measure of control which the state retains of remedial processes, but he added: "The state also continues to possess authority to safeguard the vital interests of the people."

By making this statement, he practically took his position upon the ground that the "public good was the supreme law," above statutes and written Constitutions themselves; that the object of the state was to protect society, in other words, to protect itself. The court held that no restrictive language that can be used, shall prevent the state from protecting itself.

When the state considers that an emergency exists, or a condition which affects all people, there can be no paralyzing hand placed upon those in authority, when they shall do, in the interest, not of the individual, but of society itself, that which the Constitution forbids. The court really maintains that the Constitution is only to be considered as forbidding, when the interests of individuals conflict, not when society itself is involved.

After receiving decisions which are not reported in the dispatches, the court said:

It is manifest from this review of our decisions that there has been a growing appreciation of public needs and the necessity of finding ground for a rational compromise between individual rights and public welfare.

If by the statement that what the Constitution meant at the time of its adoption, it means to say that it is intended to say that the great clauses of the Constitution must be confined to the interpretation which the framers, with the conditions and outlook of their time, would have placed upon them, the statement carries its own refutation.

There could be no doubt, in the mind of any attorney, that much of this legislation has been in violation of the specific language of the Constitution. And at the same time, probably most of the attorneys have seen the imperative necessity of the Supreme court doing exactly what it has done. In the necessarily changing social life, in our developing industrial activity, the Supreme court must alter the rigid and fixed language of the Constitution to meet this necessary change, or such manifest injustice and wrong would be suffered by large masses of people that a violent upheaval must be the result.

The Supreme court of our land is necessarily our most conservative body. Slowly, and it seems sometimes, almost painfully, does it move forward, and sometimes does not appear to move at all, because its decisions are guided by all the precedents of the past. But in the great crises, its members seem actually to take "judicial notice" of the fact that social change demands a new orientation of the Constitution to conditions, and, lo and behold! it is done.

We have seen the development, during the decades, of the growing power of our Federal government. We have seen the lines of demarcation of the states vanishing, and with the advancement of all the means of communication and transportation, and greater development in production, the same thing is bound to happen in the lines between nations.

Legislatures and courts and states must bow to the advancing tread of the millions, pressed on in the rear and on the sides as these millions are, by all that contributes to our economic development.

STATE SUPREME COURT UPHOLDS MILITARY DRILL

Another decision from the Supreme court, not by any means as far reaching, and not by any means in harmony with the general spirit of the times or the tendency of progress as was the decision in the Minnesota case, was handed down by the California Supreme court, upholding the validity of the rule requiring military drill in the state university.

This was upholding the language of the organic act creating the university, and the Constitution of the state, requiring military tactics as being among the subjects which should be taught. While this rule is contrary to the spirit of the Kellogg-Briand peace pact, and while the rule tends to belie the protestations in many other directions, yet the court says that the rule remains and as far as the California university is concerned, if the student would attend the university, he must obey the rules laid down by the regents, and this is one of the rules.

If these men or any other men have religious scruples against military training; if they believe it is contrary to the spirit of the founder of their religion, they have the privilege of going to many other institutions which do not insist upon such training. To be sure, their taxes help to carry on the University of California, but the remedy for that situation lies in changing the conditions when they have a majority in the state that will permit it.

We are not surprised at this decision. The question of conscience is hardly at stake. If this is carried up to the United States Supreme court, our state court is likely to be upheld. Even though the judges might feel that such a provision harked back to the spirit of the Dark Ages, it is the privilege of the state to do it if it wants to. The discussion which this will provoke; the attention which it will challenge, are collateral values which will come from it. And from that point of view, it may have been well worth while.

CALIFORNIA ADDS TO LYNCHING QUOTA

Lynchings rose last year 180 per cent over the record for "mob murder" in 1932. Aggravating the record is the further fact which the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People discovers from its study of the lynchings that in 1933 there were a "surprisingly large number of instances of apparent collusion between law officers and mobs."

Regarding the lynching in San Jose the report states that in that instance for the first time in American history "the Governor of an American state actually condoned a lynching and promised to pardon any lynchers convicted of the crime."

The society sees as ominous the tendency likely to grow to threatening proportions of law officers to support mobs in the illegal acts and implies that it should be curbed "by drastic legislative action."

"Drastic legislative action" to protect a state from executives whose betrayal of the state arises from their unwillingness to uphold legal methods presents difficulties.

Probably the state should have the legal means to act as quickly against an executive who supports mob violence as the mob acts against its victim. Delays and legal protectives surrounding the executive who supports mob murderers is as aggravating as those surrounding criminals.

War Can Be Prevented

Detroit News

It is wholly possible for the people of the United States to keep out of war and it is even likely that, if they wish, they can prevent other peoples from going to war. The prime condition for continued peace is that the American people determine an attitude of mind which denies that war can accomplish anything worth while or even anything that it pretends to accomplish. If that conviction becomes rooted in the emotions of the American people, when the next crisis comes, they will control events instead of being controlled by them.

To reach that conviction of war's wholly negative character it is essential to recognize that rules of logic may not be applied to wars. There were thousands and tens of thousands of men and women who, before the last war broke out, knew positively that any war must disrupt commerce and the machinery of commerce; many said so. Yet war came, and did just that.

There were actually millions, when the threat of war came close, who repeated one to another the assurance that no one could afford a war and that hostilities would soon end in bankruptcy; therefore the bankers would not permit a war. But the war came and it did not go into bankruptcy; it left that for the peace. The war found all the cash it needed; or if not, then credit, which was even better, since credit was or could be illimitable and payment indefinitely postponed.

War feeds while it lasts, on its own destructions. What this country is doing in a peacetime crisis, by national credits carefully distributed to provide employment and stimulate purchasing power, all countries do in war, but on a frantic, unreckoning scale which never succeeds in overtaking the demand for more weapons of destruction until the last shot of the war is fired.

Wars come, then, without logic. They come most frequently because national emotions are incorrectly interpreted; when those emotions flame forth, events, so long preparing and so misunderstood, are beyond control. If wars were wholly a formula of relative strength and never to be considered unless the chances as between two opponents, appeared reasonably comparable, then the War of Independence, weighed by such logic, was a prodigious blunder and the victory of the United States of America an unforgivable affront to the probabilities.

Judged by the world's advance information, Japan, engaging the giant Russia in war, was lunatic. The world was ignorant both of Japan's preparations and Russia's weakness. Appearances are deceptive, just as in the case of the Serbs who, long held subject by the Turks and then driven in route during the Great War, remained even then as they are today, among the most formidable fighting men in Europe.

It is not much use to attempt to determine the chances for war or for peace on what seems to be the visible possibility. Men will fight from despair as well as from arrogance; they will fight always from severe emotional disturbance, and it is this precisely which feeds the furnace of the madness history calls war. It is to understand and relieve these emotions that the peoples of the world need most to study.

The obvious course is to encourage sanity in our international outlook, to hold fast and in spite of whatever appeal, to the absolute knowledge we have that no war is a good war; then, with that conviction fixed beyond any tampering, to study the world around us for the impulses that are to be found deep in the hearts of the peoples, behind all the pretentious facade of statesmanship.

After all, we are not the first to realize that war is a horror. Throughout the centuries the bones of armies have made the habitable surface of the globe one gigantic graveyard. Another war does not have to be, unless we think ourselves into it. Better, perhaps, to believe that this perplexed period of post-war invalidism is the long convalescence from which we emerge to lasting international health.

The President's Message

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

BILL

We don't know what to do with Bill—
A far from model child.
We've talked and talked to him, but still
He's rude and rough and wild.
Of course he has endearing traits
And may improve with years,
But goodness gracious, how he hates
To wash behind the ears.

When told to wear his Sunday best
He makes a frightful scene;
However carefully he's dressed
He simply won't keep clean.
His stockings sag about his heels,
His little knees protrude,
And when a stranger comes to meals
He messes up his food.

No proper manners has the boy;
He will not take his nap;
For things that other kids enjoy
He does not give a rap.
And when he's told to go to bed
And wish for pleasant dreams,
He shakes his little stubborn head
And wails and sobs and screams.

We often fear the wayward lad,
Despite our loving care,
Is swiftly going to the bad—
In fact is almost there.
But still, despite his smuggy face
And manners rough and wild,
We'd rather have him 'round the place
Than any other child.

The higher things of life are the ones you can keep right on pursuing in times like these.

Darn it! All of those useless vice presidents were fired and now they could be answering government questionnaires.

And when at last business recovers, will there be some nice graduation exercises?

The more the Senate investigates, the better we understand why Big Business wished to be let alone.

Nobody need worry about reducing the cotton crop while field hands can get $12 a week from the CWA.

Hell hath no fury like a Senator scorned by a mere professor.

Mencken used to say all great writers were bachelors. Then he got married, quit his magazine and made up with Bishop Cannon.

AMERICANISM: Voting for legal liquor to consume American grains; arranging to import most of the liquor.

That is, legal liquor would pay a lot of taxes if we had a lot of legal liquor.

The new tax law will soak incomes of 15 to 25 thousand. Lower brackets have the votes, higher ones the influence.

The government helps everybody except the poor coach who loses his job for want of money to hire good players.

THINGS ARE GOING UP, BUT YOU CAN STILL

You can tell about how much a President wants from Congress by the patronage he holds back to pay for it.

If mere professors can run the country fairly well, think what coaches could do.

Those who are waiting for a break should watch the ordinary man's New Year resolutions.

The income tax law is burdensome but we've got to have some way to punish a gangster for murder.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

THE SPLIT BUDGET BOGY

The Battle of the Budget promises to bring an unprecedented liveliness to the present session of Congress. And much of the battle is likely to be waged around the fact of a split budget—a budget split into an ordinary budget and an extraordinary budget.

The traditionalists will do their best to frighten the nation and bludgeon Congress with the magnitude of the extraordinary budget. Fantastic pictures will be painted of a nation skidding toward bankruptcy and setting the stage for an orgy of printing press money. And these pictures will be painted regardless of the moderateness of the ordinary budget.

Congress will do well to take all this scare talk with a grain of salt. The Roosevelt leadership is on solid ground in shifting the burden of the financing of recovery to the future when prosperity will have returned. There is room for a little quarreling with the Roosevelt leadership about some of its ordinary retrenchments, but in so far as it undertakes to bring its ordinary budget as near to balance as possible and then frankly does whatever may be necessary to prime the recovery pump, regardless of cost, and asks a prosperous future to pay its share of the recovery it will enjoy, the Roosevelt leadership is playing an enlightened role.

As I have pointed out before, when the issue was less urgent, we too often lower taxes in times of prosperity and raise them in times of depression, when wisdom suggests the opposite policy.

Here are some principles that Congress should keep in mind as it considers budgetary policy:

(1) It is not sound statesmanship to raise taxes in a time of depression to a point that will make it increasingly difficult for business and industry to resume normal operation.

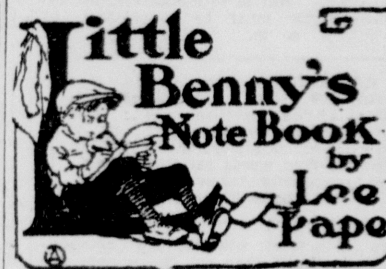

(2) It is not sound statesmanship to reduce expenditures on truly vital public services to a point that leaves them tragically crippled for a generation to come.

(3) It is sound statesmanship to make periods of prosperity carry a material part of the burden of periods of depression.

(4) It is dangerous to assume that a public budget is the same sort of problem as a private budget, for it is the business of government, in a time of stress, to supplement private enterprise by doing what private enterprise cannot do—lay on the future to lift us out of the mire.

Even the funds of the extraordinary budget must be spent wisely and in directions that will really promote recovery, but the principle of the extraordinary budget is sound to the core.

HOW GOOD?

Pop was smoking to himself with a satisfied expression and ma said, O dear, here it is the 2nd week of the new year and it just occurred to me that you haven't made your annual resolution to stop smoking. Not that you've ever kept it in the past and not that I think you ever will, any more than the leopard's proverbial spots, but I mean just for the principal of the thing, she said.

I understand, it's a kind of tradition and the family that doesn't keep up its traditions isn't worthy of the name, pop said. It's the first year I've missed since I can remember, it seems almost like a sacrilege, but what can I do. I can't make a New Year resolution after the first of January, it would be like a holler mockery or at least an anti climax, he said, and ma said, Yes, by this time you've often broken it already in former years.

If you'd only reminded me before the first of the year this wouldn't have happened, pop said, and ma said, My lands don't blame me, I can't be a wawking memorandum book all a time.

Well, I'm quite broken up about this, pop said. It seems like a missing link out of the chain of my life, or something symbolic of that nature, and yet what can I do about it, that's the question. I can see only one way out. There's the Russian New Year, and there's the Jewish New Year, I could start my resolution on whichever comes first. By golly that's an idea suppose you look up the dates in the public library and let me know by tomorrow evening, he said, and ma said, Now William don't take it so hard, it's not the end of the world or anything remotely near it, my goodness forget it.

I'll try to, I'll do my best, pop said. And he kept smoking his cigar and winked me a wink.

Meaning it would be a cinch to forget.

"I'm with you," said Miss Maria. "He has broken a string of windows, lost a few books, fought about once a week, spilled ink, stepped on flower beds, and teased the girls but the record of worthy deeds speaks for him louder than we can."

"Well, what do you make of that?" said his perplexed mother. "You haven't a thing on the card."

E. Bula and his business associates, who purchased the 154-acre citrus property of H. McPhie at Villa Park, two weeks earlier, realized $12,000 profit on the property in a week's time. They sold 10 acres of D. A. Blank of Orange, and the remainder to the Lemon association at Villa Park. The consideration paid McPhie was $32,000, and the Orange man paid the same sum to Bula and his partners for the 10 acres, leaving $12,000 received from the Lemon association for the remaining five and a fraction acres, as total gain.
